University Prepares For Big Alumni Day

Many Graduates Expected To Return During Festivities Of June Week

PLANS have been completed for the biggest and best Alumni and Class Day ever held at the Old Line Institution, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, secretary of the Alumni Association.

At 10:00 a. m. president H. C. Whiteford will call the annual meeting of the association to order in the lecture hall on the third floor of the new Chemistry Building. At this time the president will make his annual address, a resume of the minutes of the last meeting will be read, the secretary will make his report, sectional groups will give their reports, Mr. H. C. Byrd will report on athletics at the University, a report will be given by the auditing committee, the new amendment to the constitution will be voted on, a report will be made by the special committee on the new Alumni Loyalty Fund, and election of officers will take place.

W. B. Burruss to Speak

The main address of the morning will be delivered by W. B. Burruss, of Washington, D. C. Mr. Burruss is very well known and, when he spoke at the University several years ago, impressed everyone with his pleasing and magnetic personality.

At 12:30 p. m. a special luncheon will be held in the College Dining Hall, complimentary tickets to which may be secured at the secretary's office, west wing of the Agricultural Building. Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland, will speak at this time and George O'Conner will provide entertainment.

Ivy-planting ceremonies by members of the senior and junior classes will take place at 2:30 p. m., and the cornerstone-laying ceremonies of the new library an hour later. At 3:30 the senior class will present "Kempy", a play in three acts, and, immediately following the play, the various

Harry W. Wells, '28 Radio Technician

Harry W. Wells, a graduate of the class of 1928 of the University, College of Engineering, recently returned to his home after having engaged in an expedition into the jungles of Borneo. His encounters with aboriginal head hunters and huge red ants read like a dime novel. Harry, who is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity, captained the varsity rifle team while at the University and was otherwise outstanding on the campus.

Wells was radio technician of an expedition sent out by the All-American Mohawk Corporation and the University of Chicago in order to determine the various effects of tropical

Dr. James Brown Scott, well known lawyer and educator, will be speaker at commencement exercises of the College Park Schools of the University, Tuesday, June 10.

James Brown Scott To Address Graduates

Mothers of Girl Students Spend Day On Campus Viewing Work Being Done

DR. JAMES BROWN SCOTT, educator and international lawyer, who is trustee and secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will deliver the commencement address at the University of Maryland, College Park, on June 10, President Raymond Allen Pearson, of the University, announces.

Among the important positions he has filled are: Solicitor of the State Department, technical delegate to the second Hague Peace Conference and to the Paris Peace Conference, and has been on numerous internationals tribunals during the last 25 years or more. He was also editor of International Law for 17 years. His books and papers cover a wide field on international matters.

Evalyn Ridout, of Annapolis, Md., was selected as Queen of the annual May Day held at the University, May 15. Her attendants were Isabel Dynes, Chevy Chase, Md; Curry Nurse, Dawsonville, Md.; Isabel Bewick, Cumberland, Md. and Roberta Harrison, Washington, D. C.

The University of Maryland chapter of Tau Beta Pi recently initiated into its membership, John Hays Hammond, internationally known mining engineer. Tau Beta Pi is a national engineering fraternity.

Mothers of the home-economics students were entertained at the University, May 3, where they were enabled to see some of the work their daughters have been doing. Theta Gamma sponsored a student program which began at 10:30 a. m. and was followed by a visit to an exhibit of the Home Economics College, a trip through the buildings on the campus, and a luncheon at the Dining Hall. At the luncheon the mothers met a number of the University faculty members.

The Maryland Alumni News

Among the many developments of the Alumni Association's work during the past year, nothing will be more appreciated, we are sure, than the appearance of the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS in printed form as a substitute for The Log which has been visiting our membership for the past three years.

It is pleasing to announce that, through the coöperation of the president and the University authorities, we are able to consummate our long-delayed plans in getting out the printed publication which will contain news of developments at the Institution, as well as items concerning the activities of our alumni members. Through the cordial coöperation of President Pearson, we are thus launching [illegible] a new era of alumni interest and cooperation in the development of the association and the Institution. For practical purposes, it was best to have the paper printed and published under the auspices of the University, through the Bureau of Information. It will be edited by alumni representatives and its make-up will continue to carry alumni news, as was emphasized in The Log.

We shall hope to have a renewed interest among our members in this publication. We are hoping that more and more alumni will send in news items and other features that will add to the interest and stimulate activities of alumni groups, wherever they may be.

The publication will be sent free to all alumni of the Institution. It solicits suggestions from the alumni, wherever they may be, and this first issue goes forward to the members of the association with the greetings of your president and Alumni Board and the best wishes of the president and University authorities for its future success.

WHITEFORD PLEASED

It is needless to say that I am proud to have the first issue of the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS go forward to our membership under my administration as president of the association. I am convinced this forward step will mean much to our membership as well as to the University.

In speaking for the Alumni Board and Association, I am deeply grateful to the president and University authorities for making it possible to inaugurate the first issue of the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS. May it carry a word of cheer to every alumnus of the Institution.

H. C. WHITEFORD,
President, Alumni Association.

TO THE ALUMNI:

The improvement in the appearance of the alumni publication, we like to think, is typical of the progress of the University of Maryland.

The College Park Schools of the University have been showing constant improvement since their establishment in 1856. We hope the time will never come when loyal alumni cannot find that improvements are being made.

I congratulate the alumni and their executive officers upon the fine progress being made in the alumni organization. Alumni of some other institutions have gone further than ourselves along this line, and we will benefit from their experiences. Their efforts, as ours, are based upon loyalty to Alma Mater and an honest desire to be of help to her.

R. A. PEARSON,

classes will hold reunions. Those classes scheduled to return this year are 1878, 1879, 1880, 1881, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919.

The June Ball will be in Ritchie Gymnasium from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Commencement exercises for the College Park Schools of the University will be held at College Park in Ritchie Gymnasium at 11:00 a. m. on Tuesday, June 10. All alumni are urged to stay over. All fraternities and sororities will hold open house for their alumni during the week-end.

Headquarters for alumni will be in the secretary's office, west wing of the Agricultural Building. Lounge and rest rooms for the ladies will be maintained on the second floor of the Agricultural Bldg. and at the Y-Hut.

Proposed Amendment of Interest To Alumni

At the recent meeting of the Alumni Board, April 11, Mr. J. H. Mitchel and Mr. C. W. Cole were appointed a committee of two to report to the association on June 9 concerning the new amendment to the constitution which is concerned with the abolishment of the present dues of $2 and the establishment of an Alumni Loyalty Fund. The proposed amendment is herewith published for the information of the membership.

The purpose of the new amendment would be to eliminate the present division of the alumni ranks into paid and unpaid members and to adopt a broader and more acceptable plan for financing the association.

The present article, number 10, reads as follows: The annual dues shall be $2 per year, provided that the members of each succeeding graduating class shall be exempt from the payment of dues during the first year after graduation.

The proposed amendment reads as follows: In the place of annual dues there is hereby established the Alumni Loyalty Fund to which the whole alumni of the Institution, including all members, shall be asked from year to year to contribute in such amounts as may be given. It will be the duty of the officers and the Alumni Board to allocate the proportional amount received from the membership for the support and conduct of the association's business, the remainder to become an endowment fund or to be used for the promotion of any other purpose that is desired or directed by the association or prescribed by the donor.

SYMONS GRATIFIED

It is most gratifying to your secretary to be able to take part in the issuing of the first printed publication for our Alumni Association. The Log has served a most useful purpose and its development into the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS will be welcomed, I am sure, by every member of our association.

We are indebted to President Pearson, also Mr. Byrd, in charge of the Bureau of Information, and other University authorities for their generous consideration and forward-looking policy in assisting the establishing of this publication. I feel sure it will mean much towards binding our membership together for advancing the interests of the Institution and the association, as well as helping our individual members to greater accomplishments in life.

T. B. SYMONS,
Secretary,
Alumni Association.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. HOTTELL

Many Improvements In Athletic Plant

Alumni Will Find Facilities For Sports Much Improved at University

Old grads who have not been to College Park recently and who return for the alumni festivities on June 9, as part of the commencement program, will be agreeably surprised and pleased to note the improved athletic facilities.

Great strides have been made in the last two years and when the proposed field house, revamped concrete stands, swimming pool, golf course, and some additional recreational spots are provided, the Old Line University will have the best all-around athletic plant in the South.

Diamond Completed

A handsome baseball field, with as fine a college diamond as is to be found anywhere in the country, is the latest addition. It was finished in time for the "Army Day" program on April 26, when the Old Liners took the measure of the West Point teams in both baseball and lacrosse. The new stands seat more than 1,500 persons.

The new cinder path and courts, which were built last summer and fall and which will take a little time to get in the best condition, are coming along in good shape and should be fully developed before another school year rolls around.

Coeds Active

With the coming of increased facilities, the coeds are sharing more in athletic activities. Prior to this year the girls had rifle shooting, the only intercollegiate pastime, and interclass basket-ball and tennis. Field hockey was added this year and soccer was indulged in to some extent. Both will be fostered fully in the future. The girls, of course, have their own physical director, the position being filled for the first time during the 1929-30 term.

Forging Ahead

It also is proposed to foster intramural athletics to a greater extent in the future and a complete department of physical education will be formed as soon as is possible. It is hoped to have this department by next fall. However, it takes both time and money to accomplish such things and Maryland has been progressing much faster in many ways than most schools. She is indeed fortunate to have such an individual back of her athletic activities and endeavors as Curley Byrd.

Summer School Begins On Wednesday, June 25

Miss Alma Preinkert, registrar of the University, announces that the sixteenth session of the Summer School of the University will begin Wednesday, June 25, and continue six weeks, ending Tuesday, August 5.

Wednesday, June 25, will be registration day and students may not register after June 28 except by special permission and the payment of $2.

To all those desiring it, board may be secured at the College Dining Hall.

Accommodations will be in the College dormitories, although those who desire to room off the camous may do so at approved boarding-houses.

William Evans, Old Line in-home, is certain to gain an all-American position for the second consecutive year. Evans, who was the leading scorer last year, is again well out in front. He had chalked up 31 goals in the first seven games, no team having been able to stop him. He gathered all of Maryland's three points in the St. John's clash, despite the fact that the Annapolitans made a concentrated effort to stop him.

The general fee for all students is $16; board, $40; room $6, and the non-resident fee for those not from Maryland or the District of Columbia will be $10. Please register early.

Joseph McGlone, '26, now working in Philadelphia, says that it is very probable that he may be transferred to Washington in the near future.

William Goff is working for a feed company in Baltimore and is living in Baltimore County.

Ross Black, '29, prominent in many campus activities while at the University, is studying law at night at the University of Maryland Law School in Baltimore. During the day Ross keeps busy editing a publication for one of the oil companies.

Athletic Teams End Successful Season

Football, Lacrosse, and Baseball Are Leaders In Number of Victories

While several important contests remained to be played when this was written, notably the lacrosse games with Navy and Hopkins, Old Line athletic teams have done well enough in all lines of endeavor to assure Maryland of one of its best years in sports.

It is history that the Maryland football team, with a tie with Yale and victories over many other big rivals, had a fine season and that the basket-ball team won 75 per cent. of its games in a long and hard schedule.

Hopkins Defeated

Now the lacrosse and baseball teams are adding heavily to the list, and, although the track and tennis teams will not have a balance on the right side of the ledger, they have made the best of the material at hand and have turned in some fine performances. One victory the track men scored, that over Hopkins, really is enough in itself to make the campaign a success.

However, the high spot in track was the victory of "Bill" Kinnamon, in the 440-yard hurdles in the classic Penn Relays and the triumphs of Urban Linzey in the half-mile and John McDonald in the shot-put in the Southern Conference indoor meet. Linzey also got second in the half in the Dixie outdoor title games while Kinnamon was fifth in the 220-yard hurdles, a near fall killing off his chances to win.

Lacrosse Team Good

Maryland has won six out of seven lacrosse games thus far, losing only to St. John's, 1929 collegiate champion. Its most notable victories were over Army, 8 to 1, and Pennsylvania, one of the two big "twelves" in America to beat the invading Oxford-Cambridge team, 15 to 2.

The Old Liners had two more ball games to stage as the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS copy was called for. It had compiled a record of 11 wins, six defeats and one tie in 17 contests, and there was not an easy team on the schedule. Twelve of the battles were with Southern Conference Rivals.

PERSONALS

Robert Hitch, '29, is studying law at George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

Julian Bowman, '29, is working with the Westinghouse Electric Company in Pittsburgh, Pa.

J. Peary is in plant-disease work with a New Jersey concern. Incidentally, he has shown fine spirit by sending a number of students down to Maryland during the past few years.

William Grace is connected with the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company, working out of Baltimore.

Craig Bowman, '26, is living at [illegible] Maryland.

[illegible] Donovan '17, who was associated with the Pennsylvania Railroad, is now located with the Department of Chemistry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and is living in Washington, D. C.

Recent visitors to the campus were Joseph Berger, '26, and his wife, formerly Miss Francis Freeney, '28. Joe, it is understood, will report soon for duty on the U. S. S. Utah.

Norwood Eaton, '27, of Washington, D. C., has been employed by the State of Virginia, to have charge of the entomological work at the new State laboratory which is being established at Charlottesville. Eaton received his Master's degree the year after he graduated, and took up entomological inspection work with the United States Department of Agriculture, first in New York City and later in Philadelphia. While in Philadelphia he was under the supervision of Jisliuk, also a graduate of the University.

Frank Hoffecker, '14, a star baseball and football player while at the University, was on the campus recently.

Mrs. Francis Lemon Lord, '24, is teaching in a Junior High School in Baltimore City.

ENGAGEMENTS

John White, '24, former editor of the Diamondback, and one of the leaders who helped materially to put the Maryland student paper on the up grade, will join the list of benedicts next fall.

White, who has a lucrative position in the journalistic field in New York, will wed Miss Augusta Braxton Postlee, of that city.

While at Maryland, White was not only editor of the Diamondback but was president of the Glee Club and active in other campus affairs.

MARRIAGES

Victor Meyers, '25, and Louise Marlow, '28, were married recently in Washington, D. C.

W. J. Loscure, '22, and Charlotte Spence, '24, were married at St. Andrew's Chapel, College Park, recently. They will live at 333 Market St., Harrisburg, Pa.

H. Edwin Semler, '22, was recently married to Miss Thelma Geraldine Arthur, of Hagerstown, Md. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Arthur and is a graduate of the Hagerstown High School, class of 1921.

The couple was married in St. John's Lutheran Church. Mr. Semler is physical director of the Hagerstown High School. They will live at Surrey Apartments, Hagerstown.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. E. Kohner announce the birth of a daughter, Josephine, on March 12. Mrs. Kohner is a graduate of the class of 1922.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson I. Ford announce the birth of a baby daughter, Patricia Anne. Both parents are graduates of the University, Watson having been a member of the class of 1925, and "Budgy," Julie Louise Behring, of the class of 1927.

conditions on radio receiving and sending apparatus and signals. With three companions and as many portable combination sending and receiving sets, he penetrated 300 miles inland to the interior of the Malay Peninsula.

On this inland voyage, Wells and his colleagues fought giant snakes and malaria. They caught and tamed deer scarcely larger than house cats, and honey bears about the size of dogs.

Their lives were in great danger for a period of time when the commander of the Dutch outpost where they had established a base camp was murdered. The danger passed only when two guilty natives had been captured and the savages ceased to fear an avenging invasion by white troops.

Invents Antenna

Wells devised an antenna variation that is of great utility in eliminating the outbursts of static which hampered the use of wireless in the tropics, and determined by careful tests that jungle foliage absorbs nine-tenths of the radio signal passing through it. While in the jungle, Wells maintained communication between his party and amateur wireless stations as far distant as California.

Many Alumni Return For Annual Reunion

Spend Time Renewing Friendships and Rambling Over Campus of University

ANOTHER MILESTONE has been passed. The old grads returned once more from all directions to see the end of another school year, to see another group of seniors emerge into the open range, to hear and note the progress of their Alma Mater, to see all those things that make them proud of the fact that they are alumni of a greater University of Maryland.

Many Come Back

It was fine, indeed, to note that so many returned on Alumni Day and that such a splendid spirit of coöperation prevailed. Among those present were:

1893—Henry Holzapfel; 1894—F. B. Bomberger; 1895—W. W. Skinner; 1896—W. T. L. Rollins, and 1897 Grenville Lewis.

1898—J. Hanson Mitchell and L. J. Houston, Jr.; 1899—J. W. Chambers and R. J. McCandlish; 1900—S. Marvin Peach and Wm. D. Groff and 1901—Henry C. Whiteford.

1902—Thomas B. Symons; 1903—None. Better luck next time; 1904—William C. Rolph, S. B. Shaw and Gilbert Dent; 1905—Wellsstood White and J. W. P. Somerville, and 1906—J. J. T. Graham and J. M. Hunter.

1907—John P. Mudd; 1908—L. B. Broughton, Reuben Brigham, W. A. S. Somerville, Chas. W. Sylvester, C. A. Warthen, and E. I. Oswald.

1909—W. R. Maslin and E. N. Cory; 1910—A. C. Adams, H. B. Hoshall, F. R. Ward, S. S. Stabler, Maj. O. H. Saunders, Millard Tydings, and W. P. Cole, Jr.

1911—Jos. Wm. Kinghorne, Joseph W. Daley, and James M. Burns; 1912—W. O. Warthen and Chas. Linhardt, Jr.; 1913—None. See you next June, however.

1914—E. P. Williams, L. R. Rogers, and R. V. Truitt; 1915—Richard Dale; 1916—"Bill" Grace, Kerchival E. Smith, Stanley E. Day, and H. R. Walls.

1918—Geary Eppley, P. E. Clark, Frank D. Day, Mordecai Ezekial, and W. B. Posey.

1919—R. Lee Sellman, Charles E. Paine, George W. Norris, James W. Stevens, Howard O. Carter, and W. R. Hardisty.

1920—Elizabeth H. Day, H. M. Carroll, and P. W. Chichester. 1921—William Paul Walker and C. W. Cole, and 1922—W. W. Kirby and R. L. Sutton.

1924—William B. Hill and Sarah E. Morris; 1925—L. E. Worthington, Elizabeth Duvall, M. Frances Wolfe and Emanuel F. Zatezuk.

1926—W. H. Evans, Frank W. Rothenhoeffer, Edward M. Lohss and Edward A. Christmas, and 1927—Mary Welsh.

1928—C. W. Seabold, J. Earle Zobel, Philman I. McCoy, Reese L. Sewell, Barwell B. Powell, W. A. Dynes, Daniel Cox Fahey, and

H. C. Whiteford Reelected Association President

Henry (Dick) Whiteford, '01, who was recently reelected president of the Alumni Association of the University of Maryland, has always been an ardent worker in the interests of his Alma Mater. He has come quite naturally by this, since he was very active and popular while a student at the old Maryland Agricultural College, now a part of the University.

Whiteford was born, December 23, 1880, near Cambria, Harford County, Md. He attended the public school of his neighborhood and graduated from the Delta High School. In the fall of 1898 he entered the freshman class of M. A. C., where he proceeded to make history for himself and the school. He showed much ability as an athlete and manager of athletic teams and was manager of the famous football team of 1900. He also played third-base on the baseball team.

In addition, Dick was secretary and treasurer of the Rossburg Club, and was prophet and historian of his class. He was also chairman of both the floor and refreshment committees for the Junior ball. Altogether he was one of the most popular and well liked young men at the institution.

Activities Keep Grads Busy During Week-end

Meeting, Luncheon, Corner-stone Laying, Senior Class Play, and Game Complete Program

THE DAY OF DAYS was opened by a meeting of the Alumni Association, called to order by H. C. Whiteford, '01, president, at 10 a. m. The usual routine of parliamentary law was followed in its opening. All conditions were normal, as all who were there were able to answer present.

Treasurer's Report

Dr. T. B. Symons, '02, secretary-treasurer, in giving his report, called attention to the new Alumni News, a publication that is to supplant The Log. The alumni's attention was also called to the difficulty in keeping our mailing list correct; this he said could be greatly helped by the coöperation of fellow alumni. He spoke very enthusiastically about the group meetings that have been held during the past year. The treasurer's report by Dr. Symons was on the profitable side of the ledger and showed that the association is progressing.

Following Dr. Symons' report, President Whiteford delivered an address in which he expressed his gratification for having been elected president of the Alumni Association and for the fine coöperation given him by the Alumni Board and the entire body. He stated that meetings of the board were held regularly and that Dr. R. A. Pearson, president of the University, attended and discussed frankly and enthusiastically matters of importance to the association, pledging his own and the University's support in assisting the alumni in the employment of a part-time assistant secretary for the association. He expressed the hope that the association would not misconstrue this assistance by the president's office as indicating any desire to control the affairs of the Alumni Association. President Whiteford made mention of the Alumni News, the building program, development in athletics, and the Loyalty Fund whereby the alumni can lend their whole-hearted support to make a bigger and better University.

As President Whiteford had visited

Loyalty

Loyalty! what a lot of meaning is packed into that little word and how much, oftentimes, depends upon it for success.

"The value of Loyalty" was the subject of a mighty fine address delivered on June 9 to the members of the Alumni Association assembled here at College Park for the Annual Reunion.

Following are extracts from Mr. Burruss' speech that should prove of interest and value to all:

"The only reason I am trying to qualify as a man who has spoken of loyalty is because I have realized the pleasure of being loyal to my Institution's activities. I do not claim any credit for so doing. I am perfectly selfish in my loyalty. You cannot expect loyalty from anybody against his own best interest. It is wrong to expect one to be loyal on emotional grounds. You cannot expect loyalty if it is not sound and if it is not to one's interest to be loyal. It is to your interest to be loyal to Maryland, and it is to your interest to make the other fellow see it. It is a problem of salesmanship and ability to make the other fellow see it as you see it.

* * * * *

"Talk with enthusiasm. Tell about Maryland University and what it is doing and make others do likewise and there is absolutely no limit to what can be accomplished by this organization. I know it is possible. Make your organization strong and the financial end will take care of itself. You would not be proud of the University of Maryland if it dwindled to a few dozen students, but you would if it went up to ten or fifteen thousand students. You would be proud if teachers wanted to be on your faculty. You can make your college bigger and better by concerted effort. In order to make your Institution bigger and better, make yourself a bigger and better man, for you graduated from it.

* * * * *

"Christ told twelve apostles; twelve men told others, and Christianity has spread all over the world."

Don't Forget!

Make your plans NOW to attend the grand assembly of ALL ALUMNI at College Park on Alumni and Class Day, 1931. Arrangements are being made now to have a Grand Reunion from the class of 1807 on up. A member of your class has volunteered to keep you posted as to details. Co-operate with him and make this the greatest gathering of alumni of the University of Maryland in history.

Dr. R. V. Truitt Marries Miss Mary Harrington

Dr. Reginald V. Truitt, professor of aquiculture, was married on the evening of June 18 to Miss Mary Harrington, daughter of the former Governor of Maryland, Emerson C. Harrington, of Cambridge, Md. The nuptial ceremony, which was one of the social events of note for the spring season on the Eastern Shore, united two of the oldest families of the State, the Harringtons of Dorchester County and the Truitts of Worcester County.

Dr. Truitt, who is the son of the late Captain George Truitt, of Snow Hill, Md., was graduated from the Maryland State College in 1914, and since 1918 has been professor of aquiculture at the University of Maryland. During his stay on the campus he has received many honors, both from the students and from nationally known scientific bodies.

Pollock, '23, Appointed Assistant Secretary

George Findlay Pollock, who was recently appointed assistant secretary of the Alumni Association and assistant in the office of the president of the University, is a graduate of the class of 1923.

He is a native of Montgomery County, entering the University from Gaithersburg High School in the fall of 1919. He received his B. S. degree from the College of Agriculture in 1923 and the next year was awarded his M. S.

"Rosey," as he is affectionately called by all who know him, was very active while at the University and was a letter winner in baseball and football and, in his senior year, was awarded the prize for typifying the best in athletics. He also won the Maryland saber given to the member of the Reserve Officers' Training corp unit, in which he was a major, who does the most for the advancement of the military department.

Before his appointment Mr. Pollock was engaged in farming at Boyds, Montgomery County, Md. At the present time he and Mrs. Pollock are still living at that address.

some of the group organizations during the year he felt that the members should hear from these groups. J. P. Mudd, '07, reported first for the Philadelphia group. Herbert Balkan, '18, of New York, told of the enjoyable meetings they were having. Dr. Franklin gave an inspiring talk about the progress of the Cumberland group. Hanson Mitchell, '98, spoke of the future plans of the Baltimore group. E. F. Zalesak, '25, reporting for the "Old Line Club" in Washington, issued a challenge by saying that he represented the "best group." H. R. Shoemaker, '17, of Frederick County reported a good attendance at a recent banquet. H. M. Carroll, '18, of Harford County, made known that his group was coming fast. C. W. Cole, '21, of Baltimore County told of progress with future plans. Bill Hill, '24, of Prince George's County, spoke of the recent organizing of a group in this county. Then the "baby" cried out, Calvert County; this group was formed just two weeks ago and yet sent Frank Day, '20, to represent them. Here is our plan for next year: More Groups, More Reports, and Many More present.

Following these reports a distinguished orator, Mr. W. B. Burruss, of Oakland, Maryland, was introduced by President Whiteford. Mr. Burruss gave a very inspiring talk on "Loyalty." This speech would arouse your enthusiasm and loyalty like seeing "Snitz Snyder" or "Mike Stevens" make a dash of 75 yards for a touchdown in the last few minutes of play to win for old Alma Mater. You would rise to your feet in wild applause at such a feat—well, we did for Mr. Burruss, to the echo of his splendid message. Extracts from his speech will be found in the editorial column of this issue. Don't fail to read it.

Loyalty Fund Discussed

A report on the Loyalty Fund was made by Hanson Mitchell, '98, chairman, suggesting the fund as a substitute for the present system of annual dues. This was followed by arguments pro and con. After some discussion it was laid on the table to be brought up before the Alumni Board with the understanding of having it as a separate fund, and the regular annual dues to continue.

Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, chairman of the auditing committee, reported that the treasury book had been examined and found O. K. A copy of the financial statement was given to each member present.

Dr. Broughton also, as chairman of committee on reunions, said that he had arranged for the classes to be together at the annual luncheon.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. HOTTELL

Elections of officers for the coming year were as follows: President, H. C. Whiteford, '01; vice-president, W. D. Groff, '00; secretary-treasurer, Dr. T. B. Symons, '02; assistant secretary, G. F. Pollock, '23; and M. M. Clark, '22, was added to the Alumni Board from the College of Arts and Sciences.

Senator M. E. Tydings, '10, made a motion that 1931 be known as a reunion year and every class have a reunion. Volunteers from each class came forward and pledged their support in helping to bring their class home to Maryland. You will hear from them later. The meeting was adjourned at 12:30 p. m.

Pearson Speaks

Following the meeting, the luncheon was held and well attended, with President R. A. Pearson as the principal speaker. Dr. Pearson made a most forceful and appropriate address. He briefly referred to the great progress being made by the Institution. He congratulated the alumni on the splendid accomplishments of the association and also on their increasing interest in developing a bigger and better Alma Mater.

The ceremony for the corner-stone laying of the new $200,000 Library was conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Maryland with Mr. George R. Garusch, Worshipful Grand Master, presiding. Hon. E. Brooke Lee, of the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, presented the building program for the University at College Park, which will be a central Heating Plant, an addition to the Engineering Building, a Women's Dormitory, a new Horticultural Building, and other improvements.

The remainder of the day was full of entertainment for visitors and alumni. The Seniors presented their play "Kempy," which was greatly enjoyed. Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Pearson held an open reception for all at their home in Hyattsville, from 4:00 to 6:00 p. m.

The setting of the sun brought on the tango fans who enjoyed a lively and colorful dance that ended a grand and glorious day when at 1:00 a. m. the orchestra played the homeward march "Home, Sweet Home." "Till We Meet Again."

Lacrosse Team Makes Good Showing In 1930

A fine year in athletics was brought to a stirring close when the Maryland lacrosse team made a sensational finish to defeat Hopkins in Baltimore on May 24, by 6 to 0, and to go over to Annapolis the following Saturday and rout Navy, 5 to 1. It was the worst beating either team ever had in the stick-wielding pastime and more than offset the defeat by St. John's, when the Old Line twelve, with sophomores filling some of the important jobs, had not been fully developed.

Maryland's great finish and the fact that Hopkins beat St. John's after the latter's win over the Old Liners, may serve to give the College Park twelve the No. 1 position when the ranking committee of the Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association meets in December. However, the worst the Old Liners can get is to share the top ladder with Hopkins, St. John's, or some other team that lost only one game. However, only Maryland, St. John's, and Hopkins have logical claims and the Old Liners appear to hold the edge.

Against Hopkins and Navy, the Old Liners, coached by Jack Faber, with Ivan Marty as his aide, played almost perfect lacrosse, the one goal scored by Navy being a lucky, long shot that would not be good one time in fifty.

Bill Evans, out home of the Maryland team, with 38 goals, led the country in scoring for the second year in succession, and is conceded to be easily the year's greatest player and one of the greatest of all time.

Evans, along with Capt. Al Heagy, first defense, and Jim Kelley, goal, were members of an all-United States picked team that played the Oshawa twelve, Canadian champions, two games in Toronto, June 13 and 14. The Yankees won the first tilt, 7 to 5, and lost the second, 6 to 3. Evans scored two goals in each of these games and was the outstanding player of the contests.

Evans and Heagy are sure to be on the all-American team, to be picked by the Intercollegiate Association; Kelley most likely will be, and Ossie Beck, Maryland center, also is bound to come in for a lot of consideration. All four were on all selected teams in the State where the best lacrosse in the country is played.

Maryland teams in seven Varsity sports—football, basket-ball, baseball, lacrosse, cross country, track, and tennis—won a total of 49 victories, suffered 37 defeats, and figured in four ties during the 1929-30 campaign. Tennis was the one pastime to have a bad record, only two matches being won and one tied in 15 contests. In every other sport a notable triumph or two was scored and Hopkins was defeated in every major sport—football, basket-ball twice, track, and lacrosse.

Freshman teams figured in 40 contests in the seven pastimes, winning 18, losing 19, and tieing 3, and will send quite a few good men up to the Varsity combinations.

Three Athletes Lost By Graduation

When diplomas were handed out three of Maryland's best athletes were among those to receive them. They were "Bill" Evans, "Al" Heagy, and "Julie" Radice, all three-letter men. All played football and basket-ball, with Evans and Heagy taking to lacrosse as their spring pastime and Radice to baseball. Evans, though, plans to return for graduate work and has another year of football coming to him, although he has had his allotted three years in lacrosse and basket-ball.

Lawrence Smallwood, '30, was married on June 21 to Marvel Douglas, Washington, D. C. Mr. and Mrs. Smallwood spent their honeymoon touring the East. When they return they will be at home at 412 Seventh Street, N. E., Washington, D. C.

Albert Heagy, '30, a star athlete for three years in football, basketball, and lacrosse, was married on June 28 to Miss Louise McKenny, of Washington, D. C. They spent their honeymoon on the Chesapeake Bay. Mr. and Mrs. Heagy now reside at 1831 California Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

E. H. Schmidt, '27, was married on June 10 to Dorothy Anne Shockley at Snow Hill, Md. Mrs. Schmidt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Jackson Schockley, of Snow Hill.

ALUMNI

Send in articles or notes about yourself, or some other alumnus, and we will publish them in the next issue of the News. The article appearing in the next issue on Clark Beach, '27, is one of a series that have appeared in the Alumni publication during the past year. Won't you help us to keep these articles going by sending in your own experiences or those of some alumnus you know? Thank you.

Doesn't this make you feel that you would have liked to be "among those present"? Among the boys who told tales of their old days, among those who held an old-time meeting, a revival of that old and venerable club called the hash-slingers?

Next year will be another chance for everyone to show the old spirit and have a jolly good time. You may look to that.

Death of Doctor Weems

Dr. Julius B. Weems, '88, professor of agricultural chemistry and station chemist from 1895 to 1904 at the Iowa College of Agriculture, died at Ashland, Va., January 25. Dr. Weems was born in Baltimore, Md., August 27, 1865, and was graduated from the Maryland Agricultural College in 1888. After two years of study at Johns Hopkins University, he received his Ph. D. degree from Clark University in 1894. Since 1915, he had been chief chemist of the Virginia State Department of Agriculture.

CORRECTION

We wish to correct an error made in the last issue of the MARYLAND ALUMNI NEWS regarding the recent marriage of Miss Charlotte Spence, '23, and E. Craig Wilton, of Washington, D. C. It was stated that Miss Spence married W. J. Lescure, Jr., '23, but this was entirely wrong, since Miss Spence's sister, Virginia, was married to Mr. Lescure over a year ago. Mr. Lescure and his wife are living in Harrisburg, Pa., and his business address is 333 Market St. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Wilton reside at 4007 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. C.

Class of 1930 Active While At University

Alumni Association Is Proud To Welcome So Fine a Group Into Its Membership

We, the staff of the ALUMNI NEWS, are taking the opportunity in behalf of the Alumni Association to congratulate the class of 1930 for its part in the making of history for the University of Maryland in social, intellectual, and athletic competitions. We also wish to introduce the class of 1930 to the Alumni Association by printing the names and honors received by its class leaders:

Albert Heagy, president of the class of 1930, hails from Washington, D.C. "Al" is a great athlete, performing well in football, basket-ball, and lacrosse in which he was captain and an All-American selection.

Harry A. Jarvis, vice-president of the class, comes from Berlin Md. He took an active interest in student activities and was manager of football.

Roy B. Tansill, treasurer of the class, is of Baltimore origin, was prominent in student activities, and was also a good athlete in baseball.

Miss Margaret Wisner, secretary, is from Takoma Park, Md., and was active in student affairs and women athletics.

Many Honors Won

William J. Kinnamon received the Citizenship Prize for men; Miss Catherine Douglas Barnsley received the Citizenship Prize for women; W. W. Evans and Albert Heagy each was awarded a medal for Excellence in Athletics; W. W. Evans received the Maryland ring for the outstanding athlete for the year; Miss Ruth Charlotte Lawless received the Woman's Senior Honor Society cup for highest scholastic standing; Charles Gassaway Spicknall received the Prince George's County medal for scholastic honors and moral character.

The Diamond Back awarded medals for efficient and faithful service to: Jerrold Powers, Arley Unger, Louise Townsend, William Rosenbaum, Hayden Norwood, and Curry Nourse; and the Reveille awarded medals for efficient and faithful service to James Andrews, Jr., Robert Beall, and Ruth Miles.

President R. A. Pearson Backs Alumni Progress

A man among men; whole-hearted, open-minded, friendly. That best describes Dr. Raymond Allen Pearson, president of the University of Maryland. He is always willing to hear both sides of a question and to extend a helping hand.

President Pearson desires to meet every student who enters the University and he is pleased to have all alumni of the institution stop to see him whenever they can.

He has a vision of the future of our school and is working earnestly for its constructive development. It is his desire to know the alumni, personally, and to acquaint himself with the many great achievements that they are accomplishing in this and other states.

Dr. Pearson has cooperated enthusiastically with the officers of the association. He has recently visited a number of the alumni groups in this State and others and he is sympathetic in making the Alumni Association of the University of Maryland a strong force in the development of the Institution.

Summer School In Spotlight At Present

Dr. Auchter Named Representative To European Congresses This Summer

THOSE who have attended Summer School at the University will be interested to know that all of the well-known social events (and others) are being repeated this year. The moonlight courses in campustry are still in vogue and the fair damsels are still the pleasing entertainers of enjoyable social events.

Brilliant colors of Paris fashions were recently displayed in an evening dress revue by our feminine scholars and, needless to say, the whole thing went over big.

University of Maryland alumni are represented by 45 individuals and all are active in the various events.

Speaking of events—there are two baseball teams, composed of members from the Eastern and Western Shores of the State and, at the present time, there is great rivalry. Leroy Mackert is the "head man."

Dr. Eugene C. Auchter, principal horticulturist in charge, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and head of the Department of Horticulture, University of Maryland, has recently been appointed by the Government to represent this country at meetings in Europe that deal with this type of work. Dr. Auchter is planning to attend several plant congresses abroad this summer.

University of Maryland boasts 24 men in the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort George Meade, Md., this summer.

The College Diploma

The question has often been asked, "Of what real value is a college diploma?" To which it must be answered that the value of a college diploma depends very largely upon the value of the individual who receives it, for, as in a cross-country race, so it will be in life—some will be leaders, others will take second place, still others, third, and many will be content to be "also rans," or plodders. The plodders, however, are very necessary.

And so with the race that is now on for the thousands who graduated last spring from various schools and colleges. The university has given them opportunities for cultural development and instruction in professions that will aid them to advance their financial interests in the battle of life.

The diploma not only indicates that the individual has met the requirements necessary for graduation but that through contact with instructors and fellow students, participation in athletics and social affairs, he has acquired mental and spiritual development that will go far to make him a good citizen; a citizen who will be mindful of the rights of others, tolerant without weakness, one who will believe in the higher things of life, one who will be capable in his chosen field of endeavor, and one who will help those less fortunate.

The college not only makes a definite effort to give the individual sufficient knowledge of how to make a living but it also goes further in teaching him how to live. To many the diploma means a great deal, but to many more it is priceless.

Dearstyne Promoted

R. S. Dearstyne, '17, once an official of the Baltimore Health Office, has been elected to the faculty at N. C. State College. He has done fine work in poultry research and public-health problems. He is also chairman of the avian pathology section of the fourth World's Poultry Congress, being held in London.

Don't Forget!

Make your plans NOW to attend the grand assembly of ALL ALUMNI at College Park on Alumni and Class Day, 1931. Arrangements are being made now to have a Grand Reunion from the class of 1807 on up. A member of your class has volunteered to keep you posted as to details. Co-operate with him and make this the greatest gathering of alumni of the University of Maryland in history.

Clark Beach, '27, Is California Rancher

The following letter from Clark Beach, class of 1927, we believe is one of the most interesting that has come into this office in many a day and we are sure that members of the association will appreciate reading it. Mr. Beach, who is secretary of the Tejon Ranchos, of Kern and Los Angeles counties, California, sent the letter to Dr. T. B. Symons, secretary of the Alumni Association.

"I appreciated very much your response to my letter of December and your interest in my activities. You asked me at that time what was the main source of revenue for the ranch. It is exclusively a 'cow outfit', a matter of great pride to them here. No side interests, although there is probably a wealth of minerals and abundant opportunity for agricultural development when a water supply is made available. The vast range exists now only for the 'cattle grazing on a thousand hills'.

"Tejon Ranchos is a great cattle empire that has changed little from the time that it was acquired from the Spanish grantees. General E. F. Beale, a Washingtonian, first bought and consolidated the grants of which it was composed and held it against the Indian and white marauders when this section was lawless. Kit Carson, Alexander Godey, and various noted scouts of that time were often found at Beale's adobe ranch-house and, no doubt, their reputation helped to defend the Ranchos against Vasquez, Murietta, and the other less notable bandits who coveted the sleek cattle of the Tejon. Rose Station, the ancient tavern on the old post road, has sold its last vino and carried out its last victim in a shooting scrape and Fort Tejon in Grapevine Canyon no longer threatens the lawless with vengeance of the U. S. Army. Yet there are heros here still.

"Tony Araujo is vaquero foreman, the best cowboy in California! He is dark and slim and full of laughter, but to cowmen on the many ranchos in California, to the newspapers, and to the movies, he is the great Araujo of the Tejon. He leads his dark horsemen, Indians and Spaniards all, over the plains and high mountains in the same routine that varies not a bit from that of years ago. No network of fences and small corrals on the Tejon. If a steer on the northern tip of the range takes a whim to go walking, it may travel southward and southwestward 80 miles before it reaches the fence that means that Tejon steers may go no further.

"The vaqueros ride a vast range here. The Tejon lands include broad plains at the southeastern end of the San Joaquin valley, the crescent of the Tehachapi Mountains that half encircle them, and a considerable stretch of the Mojave desert on the other side. Combing the plains, the canyons, the mountain tops for the cattle, the vaqueros round-up a herd each day for a 'rodeo'. Then the cowboy band surrounds the 'melee of hoofs and heads' while Araujo and his lieutenant ride through them—parting out calves for branding, dehorning, and castrating, and beef for the packers. (Fine beef it is, too. Some of our cattle, bred from registered Durham and Herefords, make the stalwart 'Bull Durham' look puny.) When the day's work is done, they barbecue their dinner in the open and spread their bed rolls on the windy desert or in a mountain canyon.

"I sometimes ride with them for a few hours when they are working near headquarters. Three years ago mine was the rare privilege to be one of them for a summer season. It is a spirited life and makes you wonder if we 'white collar men' are on the right track after all. Being secretary here is a princely position, in a way, but it is lacking in local color. Except for horseback rides and occasional trips to mountain camps, I see little of the ranch except the vista through the casement of my adobe office. That is, however, picturesque for a Marylander. You can see pomegranate trees blossoming on the edge of a dark-green orange orchard, and, above and far beyond, mountain peaks, still snow-capped at the end of May.

"If any of the College Park folks ever pay me a visit here, I would have

W. F. BYRD

Members of the Alumni Association are very sorry to hear of the recent death of the father of H. C. (Curley) Byrd. A man of noble character and pleasing personality, Mr. Byrd won for himself many friendships and was a prominent citizen of his native town and county on the Eastern Shore. His name was constantly being linked with any movement for betterment and improvement of the community in which he lived.

In behalf of the members of the association we express our condolence to "Curley" Byrd, '08, in the loss of his father.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. HOTTELL

Juniors Carry Burden In Sports In 1930-31

Juniors, with just a fair sprinkling of seniors and sophomores, will carry the burden in athletics at Maryland during the 1930-31 term.

Six of the seven letter-men left from the varsity grid team will be juniors next fall; in basket-ball, six of seven letter-winners will be juniors when they play again; a half-dozen of the nine who remain from the 17 to receive their insignia in lacrosse will be juniors; it will be 50-50 in baseball, as eight letter-men remaining will be juniors; four of the half-dozen who were rewarded in track will be juniors; three of the five to gain the coveted "M" in cross-country will be the same, while one of the trio in tennis to come back will be of the third-year class also.

Many of the reserves of last year are in this class and a number are expected to be regulars on the various teams.

Football List For 1930 Contains Twelve Games

For those who have not seen it and for those who like to make their football plans early, here is Maryland's 12-game grid list for the coming campaign:

September 27—Washington College, at College Park.
October 4—Yale, at New Haven.
October 11—North Carolina, at Chapel Hill.
October 18—St. John's of Annapolis, at College Park.
October 25 Virginia Military Institute, at Richmond, Va.
November 1—Virginia, at Charlottesville.
November 8—Washington and Lee, at College Park.
November 15—Virginia Poly, at Norfolk, Va.
November 22—Navy, at Annapolis.
November 27—Johns Hopkins, at Baltimore Stadium.
November 29—Vanderbilt, at Nashville.
December 6—Western Maryland, at Baltimore Stadium.

to introduce them to old Juan José, ancient blazer of trails and guide of armies in his youth. He comes nearer being a hundred years old than any man I ever knew. Just last week I saw a gold pan that he used in the Kern River rush. That was when he was middle aged! He is a sweeper for the ranch yards now-a-days; but on evenings in the 'bull pen' of the bunkhouse, if you understand California Spanish, he will fill your ear with history and romance.

"I wish that I were going to be with you during commencement week, but I guess I am a little too far off for a visit and it is not quite time to come East for good. I hope that you will all have a whale of a good time. Give my regards to the fellows. (All of the co-eds that I knew seem to have gotten married, so I guess they will be home with the kids.)"

Heagy and Madigan Take Positions At University

"Al" Heagy and George Madigan, athletes who won letters in three sports and who were graduated last June, have accepted positions at their Alma Mater. Heagy is with the Chemistry Department and Madigan with the College of Agriculture.

Each won his insignia in football, basket-ball, and lacrosse.

Physical Education Ph.D. Gained By U. M. Graduate

"Mac," who got his B. S. and M. S. degrees at the College Park Schools of the University, majoring in English, was awarded his Ph. D. in physical education by Columbia University in June. He is now teaching in the Summer School of the University of Maryland, but will take a position as head of physical education at Lebanon Valley College this fall. Mackert was one of the most outstanding football players Maryland has ever produced.

Four Old Liners Placed On An Unofficial Twelve

"Bill" Evans, in home; "Al" Heagy, captain and first defense; "Ossie" Beck, center, and "Jim" Kelly, goal, were picked on an unofficial All-American lacrosse team for the past season.

Evans, Heagy, and Kelly made the trip with a selected U. S. squad to play against Oshawa, Canadian champions, at Toronto, and were the outstanding players on the twelve. Evans was the leading scorer for both teams.

The Americans won the first game, 7 to 5, and lost the second, 6 to 3.

Football Is In Air Center Is A Problem

Although swimming is more in order right now, football is in the air at Maryland and there is a lot of talk about the gridiron pastime and the Old Liners' chances.

"Curley" Byrd got a fairly good line on his charges in spring practice and feels that he may have a fair measure of success in the extremely difficult schedule, if he can find a man capable of playing the center job in the right style.

He is counting a great deal on Bob Wilson, 180-pound, six-foot center who played reserve guard last fall, to hold down the center berth, and he has given evidence that he will come through.

However, Wilson was kept out of basket-ball and baseball, other sports in which he is highly proficient, because of an operation on his arm, and, of course, this makes him somewhat of an uncertain quantity.

As the players are due to report on September 1 for practice, more details will be given about the outlook in the next issue of the NEWS.

Hard Schedule For Stickmen

Maryland will play an even tougher schedule next spring than it did in the past season. Syracuse, Penn State, St. John's, Rutgers, Hopkins, and Navy are included in the eight games so far arranged. Two more contests will be added.

dets, received the Military Faculty award.

Honorary societies recognized more than a hundred of the members of the class of '30, Phi Kappa Phi, honorary society, taking the lead with 27.

The college of Arts and Sciences boasts of adding 98 members to the Alumni Association; the college of Engineering follows second with 34 men members; Education gave 27 new members; the college of Agriculture, 44, and the college of Home Economics, 13; while the latter number is unlucky, those who meet these ladies will be lucky.

Commissions Given

The Military Department, by authority of the War Department, conferred Officer Reserve Corps Commissions on 15 members of the class of '30.

This is a history of achievement collectively, as well as individually, by the class of 1930. The alumni can congratulate themselves that they are receiving these industrious, willing, and cooperative new members that will add strength to an ever-growing organization.

PERSONALS

Herbert K. Ward, '28, is doing research work for the Atlantic Refining Company this summer but will return to Penn State this fall to continue his graduate studies. Herbert would like to see some of his old friends.

Roger Whiteford, '27, who is assisting in building the business of the Western Electric Plant at Dundalk, Md., paid the campus a visit on July 18. Roger is still training his flying feet to run.

George Abrams, '27, is interested in the process of manufacturing honey by the natural method of bees. He is carrying on his work under Dr. E. N. Cory. George, no doubt bee's can be found in the basement of Morrill Hall at any time. Don't get stung.

Dr. Edwin K. Morgan, '21, is now located at the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y. Wish you success, "Eddy."

Mr. Benjamin F. (Ben) Senart, '17, a member of the U. S. Army Air Corp, extends an invitation to all Maryland Alumni and students who are interested in aviation to visit him and see the plant at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Senart is attached to the Material Division, Office of the Chief of Division.

John B. Gray, Jr., '14, was general chairman of the program committee for the dedication and opening of the Southern Maryland Boulevard on July 25. Governor Ritchie, Mayor Broening, and other men prominent in political life were present. Governor Ritchie endorsed the bill for the road, stating that it was a worthy development which would connect Calvert County's splendid recreational centers with the large cities.

MARRIAGES

Floyd F. Schrader, '27, of Kaukauna, Wis., was recently married to Miss Christel Bangster, of Washington, D. C., a graduate of George Washington University. After spending a honeymoon in Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Schrader will return to Charlottesville, Va., where Schrader is connected with the U. S. Geological Survey.

Ruth Alderman, '24, of Chevy Chase, Md., was married to Sterling L. Tait, on June 28, at the estate of her uncle, "Sky Meadows," Montgomery County, Md.

Charles F. Shelton, '28, married, on June 28, Miss Elsie M. Taldut, an alumna of George Washington University, in All Saints Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C. The reception was held at the Washington Club. The honeymoon was spent, where? On their return they will reside at 5130 Conn. Ave., Washington, D. C.

Irving Russell, '29, of Allentown, Pa., married Miss Hylda Mae Wiem, of Washington, D. C., and a graduate of George Washington University, July 10, at the Church of St. Stephens and the Incarnation. George Heine, '24, was best man, and his wife, matron of honor.

Weller Holloway, '29, now employed by the C. & P. Telephone Company of Baltimore, recently married Adele Seihler, '29, of Catonsville, Md. Can someone tell us where they are?

Cecil F. Cole, '27, will be married on August 2 to Miss Alice Bonnet, Washington, D. C., at Lincoln Road Methodist Espiscopal Church, as announced by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bonnet.

Louis F. Carrico, '28, Bryantown, Md., took as his bride, Miss Catherine E. Deving, Washington, D. C., at the Church of St Thomas the Apostle on the evening of July 5. H. G. Tippett, '28, and E. Zalsak, '25, were ushers. After a short stay in Atlantic City, the couple will spend the summer at Sherwood Forest, returning to Washington in the fall.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. William and Virginia Lescure, both of '23, are the proud parents of a 7-pound baby boy, William Joseph Lescure, 3rd, born June 23 at Columbia Hospital, Washington, D. C. The Lescure family lives at 2128 North 3rd St., Harrisburg, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chase, '23, of Washington, D. C., were blessed by the birth of Phyllis Chase, weighing 9 pounds, on June 15 at Garfield Hospital. Phyllis's first impression may be seen at her home, 3917 Harrison St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Mr. Henry Rigby Walls, '17, and Mrs. Walls announce the arrival of Henry Rigby, Jr., on June 29, weighing 6 lbs. at Mercy Hospital, Baltimore. Henry, Jr., is now at home with Ma and Pa in University Park, Riverdale, Md. Henry, Sr., is a chemist at the University Analytical Laboratory.

Boulevard Widened Wall, Gate Moved

Widening of Road Necessitates Cutting Into Campus of University

THE CONTOUR of the campus is undergoing some changes in connection with the widening of the Washington-Baltimore Boulevard. The stone wall and the gateway in the University grounds are being moved back about 50 feet to make room for the widening of the roadway.

However, the wall and gateway are to be rebuilt as nearly like the original as possible and when the road is completed the University will have profited not only by the wider highway but by the additional space provided in front of Byrd Stadium.

The road running between the Dairy Building and Rossburg Inn across to Riggs Mill Road also is to be concreted all the way and made more direct. This will give a through highway direct to Silver Spring and also will provide a short cut to the Lincoln Highway through Montgomery County.

Construction on the Library is moving forward rapidly and completion is expected early this fall.

President R. A. Pearson, of the University, made a personal visit to the Maryland boys at the R. O. T. C. Camp, at Fort George Meade, during their annual summer encampment.

Work has begun on the new Central Heating Plant, to be located diagonally across from the Experiment Station on the east side of the boulevard.

Miss Alma Preinkert, '23, assistant registrar of the University at College Park, has announced that the number of Freshman applications for admission is approximately 90 more than at the corresponding week last year.

The University has added a new course for the summer months that is worthy of note. It is a Volunteer Firemen's Short Course for all companies in the State, each having one representative. September 2 to 5 was the date this year. A fine group of lecturers was arranged for by Dr. A. N. Johnson, Dean of Engineering.

Senator M. E. Tydings Alumni Reunion Booster

United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, '10, one of Maryland's most noted graduates, is a strong booster for the proposed alumni reunion of all schools, at College Park, to be held in 1931.

Senator Tydings, although he received his B. S. degree in engineering at old M. A. C., has never used his scientific training except possibly for a "survey" of the political situation in the State. He did, however, continue his studies at the University of Maryland Law School in Baltimore, where he was awarded his LL. B. in 1913.

His first political office of note was as a member of the House of Delegates in 1916, of which he became speaker in 1920. Next he was elected to the State Senate, then stepped up to become a member of the United States House of Representatives where he served until he was chosen for the higher branch of Uncle Sam's law-

Alumni Aided By Reunions, Meetings

Opportunity to Be Given Graduates To Meet Many Athletes of University

REUNIONS and "get-together" meetings of the alumni in different localities are necessary for the progress of the association. It is planned by the association to give the alumni from the College Park branch and the Baltimore Schools an oppportunity to meet each other, to mingle with the gridiron warriors and to become personally acquainted with the players.

As can be seen by the calendar, numerous opportunities will be given the alumni and the followers of the gridiron game to come into closer touch with the team and its coach. It is expected that permission will be received to allow the alumni to have their dinners jointly with the football squad and this is looked upon as an opportunity to show your interest, spirit, and enthusiasm toward the representatives of your Alma Mater in athletic competition, that is the pride and joy of the American collegian. These dinners are not for any campaign purpose but purely as a social event. It will not be a stag affair, as the ladies will be welcome.

Cooperation

The bringing together of of the two branches of the Institution is looked upon as the logical step for a greater University. The College Park branch wants the support of its brethren in Baltimore and wants them to accept its hospitality and stand ready to cooperate in any way possible.

The group meetings will begin activities when school opens, as interest naturally is the greatest during the College season. Those groups which are organized in the cities and counties have a tremendous effect upon the support the alumni can give the Institution. It keeps the alumnus in closer contact with the University and its policies and permits one to continue to cultivate the spirit of fellowship and comradeship so thoroughly enjoyed while in college.

QUESTION. Who were the charter members of the Climax Club, and what were its by-laws?

Food For Thought

With the beginning of the football season many topics are ripe for discussion. For example, the fact that "Curley" Byrd is about to begin his 19th year as director of athletics at the Old Line School should prove of interest to every one whose heart is in tune with the fine athletic record that has been made by the University during the past decade. "Curley" deserves much praise for the fine standards he has set at his Alma Mater during this time, not only as head coach but as assistant to the president.

Incidentally it might be well to mention here, while so much is being heard these days of football material "from outside sources," that 80 per cent. of the men reporting this fall for football will be from the State of Maryland. No finer endorsement of athletics at Maryland can be found than in the fact that during 1930 the University will oppose the Naval Academy in football, basket-ball, lacrosse, baseball, track, tennis, and cross country.

Another interesting bit for consideration is just how the Old Line football team is going to make out in its twelve-game schedule, the hardest a Maryland team has ever tackled. Certainly "Curley" has some interesting combinations with such stellar players as George Chalmers and "Bill" Evans who performed so well last year and who received three letters each. On the other hand, there is "Dozy" Berger, the man who received the passes last year that tied Yale. He too will be in the fracas. And still further along the line is "Ray" Popplеman and "Al" Woods who were stars in the yearling ranks last year and who attracted wide attention.

F. K. Haszard, secretary to the president, has returned from an extensive vacation in the South. He was very much pleased with the country surrounding Mobile, Alabama, where he spent most of the time.

"Ed" Tenney Victim Of Chinese Tradition

Reports Number of Interesting Experiences With American Oil Company

"Ed" Tenney, '26, can tell something in the way of experiences in China. "Ed," who left the United States in the fall of 1928, recently wrote to Earl Zulick, '28, about his trip. An oil company sent "Ed" to its headquarters in Shanghai in first-class passenger style. His route carried him first to San Francisco by rail, where he embarked. The first stop was at the Hawaiian Islands where a day's rest was had, which was spent in seeing the sights. Also, a rest was had at the Philippine Islands for two days. From there he went to Shanghai where it was necessary to land by small boats which were rowed up the river to the Oil Company's port by Chinese oarsmen. Here it was necessary to spend a few rough days and live on hardtack rations, followed by being shown about the plant and then assigned to the Y. M. C. A. in the American Colony, which was his quarters when not in the field.

His first assignment was as field man, his duties being to visit substations of the company that are managed by English-speaking Chinese. These trips last approximately three months at a time. On the trip he is accompanied by his Chinese interpreter who is also a guide. At headquarters, in addition to the guide, he has two other servants, a house man and a valet, at a cost of approximately $2.00 per month, plus board.

One of the trips which lasted more than three months furnished an unusual experience. The trip was in Manchuria, where he spent a period of four days resting at a monastery. While there he was entertained by the monks who described and explained to him the points of interest. The chief occupation at the monastery is the tending and harvesting of crops that supply all their food. The attendants as a minor occupation make symbols and emblems for use in churches in that area of China.

Returning from this trip he had the misfortune of getting lost through the fault of his guide. This is easy in a Chinese village, as the streets are narrow and all look alike. In receiving assistance he was taken for a joy ride in a Chinese taxi. Fortunately an English representative came across his path and dispatched him to Shanghai in care of English guards and presented him to his company.

Penalty For Being Late

To add to his experience he found on his return to quarters that all his belongings had disappeared. This was due to a Chinese tradition that when the master does not return at the usual time it is assumed that he is lost or killed. In this case his valet falls heir to his belongings. As he was overdue his valet acted according to traditions.

When at headquarters the hours of work are from 9:00 A. M. to 1:00 P. M. The remainder of the day, usually, is spent in polo engagements and other pastimes. Their competitors are the departments of other internationally known oil companies that have stations in China.

The usual stay for an employee in China is three years; at the end of that time he is given a six-months furlough with transportation paid to and from the United States. On this basis "Ed" is due for a trip home next year.

The salary is attractive with possibilities for numerous increases that automatically are given on each re-employment for three-year periods. "Ed" says that his head is now as shiny as a billiard ball making body. His present term in the U. S. Senate runs until 1932.

Senator Tydings is a soldier as well as a stateman, having served on the Mexican border and later in the World War, in which he rose to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He earned three citations and the Distinguished Service Medal for his exceptional work in battles on the Western front in France.

While at College Park, Senator Tydings took an active interest in campus life, having been a member of the football squad. No alumnus takes a keener interest in the affairs of the "old school," and "Chief" is a familiar figure at various athletic contests and other events. If he has missed any alumni gathering of importance in recent years, no one can recall it.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Byrd In 19th Year As Sports Director

Duties as Assistant to President Take Large Proportion of Time, However

H. C. "Curley" Byrd began his 19th year as athletic leader and football coach at Maryland with the gathering of his 1930 gridiron squad at College Park.

"Curley," who was graduated in the class of '08, came back to College Park as the full-time sports director in the fall of 1912, and he and the Old Line Institution, athletically and scholastically, have been climbing ever since.

Makes Big Difference

When "Curley" took command, Maryland had no real place on the athletic map, and, last but not least, never had beaten Hopkins on the gridiron. Since that time Hopkins has beaten Maryland in football only twice, 3 to 0 and 14 to 13, while the Old Line School has conquered such elevens as Yale, Syracuse, Penn, and Rutgers and become one of the leaders in the Southern Conference, the largest and one of the most influential athletic organizations in America.

Where it used to be a question of how to get games, it now is a question of how many can be accepted.

At one time or another during the Byrd regime, Maryland has played the leading schools of the East and the South and one or two in the West in some sport or other and has gained for itself the finest and most coveted of all reputations, that of sportsmanship.

Now the demands upon "Curley" in his position as assistant to the president are so important and numerous that he hardly finds time to continue as coach of football, a game he really loves and from which he gets his only recreation during the year.

"Curley" is the second oldest athletic leader in the point of service in the Southern Conference, being outranked only by "Father" Dan McGugin, of Vanderbilt, one of his best friends, with whom he will match wits on November 29 in Nashville, Tennessee.

Newell Wins Fellowship To Harvard University

S. R. Newell, '20, has touched another round in the ladder of success. "Birdie," as his schoolmates knew him, has been awarded a Social Science Research Council Fellowship to Harvard University for a year's research in Social Economics. "Birdie," who is statistician on fruits in the Department of Crops and Live Stock Estimates, Department of Agriculture, has been given a year's leave to pursue the work.

Victor Keen Is Athletic Head For Electric Plant

"Vic" Keen, '21, undoubtedly the greatest pitcher ever to wear the Black and Gold of Maryland, recently was made athletic director of the Point Breeze, Md., plant of the Western Electric Company.

Keen hurled professional ball after graduating and was with the St. Louis Cardinals when they won the National League pennant in 1926. He also pitched in the International loop.

One of Keen's aides at Point Breeze is "Doug" Smink, '29, who was one of Maryland's leading lacrosse players during his stay at College Park. In fact, "Doug" was said to have been the smoothest handler of a lacrosse stick ever to perform for the Old Liners.

"GUS" CROTHERS TO COACH AT WASHINGTON COLLEGE

Omar D. Crothers, more familiarly known as "Gus" to his friends, who played football and lacrosse of a high brand for Maryland during his four-year stay at College Park, will become an "enemy" of his Alma Mater this fall.

"Gus" has accepted a position as lacrosse coach and assistant to "Tom" Kibler in football at Washington College and will take up the job at Chestertown shortly.

When "Gus" came to Maryland as a Freshman he was so young, overgrown, and inexperienced in football that he did not gain a place as a regular on the yearling team, but he "showed 'em" during the next three years when he was chosen a all-State guard each season. He also played consistently good lacrosse and is smart enough to make a good mentor in both of the pastimes.

Line A Problem For Maryland Coaches

Reserve Forwards and Centers Look Weak, While Backs Appear the Strongest

Maryland has only seven letter-men, three line men and four backs, around which "Curley" Byrd and "Charlie" Fenwick, his chief aide, must build the football team that faces a strenuous 12-game schedule this fall.

"Bill" Evans, quarterback; "Charlie" Miller, George Chalmers, and "Charlie" May, ball toters; "Al" Pease, end; "Jess" Krajcovic, guard, and "Earnie" Carlis, tackle, are the letter-men to remain in the squad now toiling at College Park.

In all, 43 players were asked to join the force to begin work Labor Day, but, when this was written, there was no certainty that all would report and it was noised about that one of the letter-men was not likely to return.

In addition to the seven to win the insignia last fall who are eligible for more football, "Jack" Norris, end, and "Bill" Fisher, tackle, would have won their letter last season had it not been for injuries, and "Bozy" Berger also would have gained the reward had he not made a late start. All three contributed heavily to the success of the team in several games, Berger's two touch-downs that tied Yale at 13-all being notable.

It is the line in general and center in particular that is likely to cause the most worry as there appears to be a wealth of backfield material. But the backs cannot go any place unless they have a line to support them and a center is a mighty important job on any man's eleven these days.

It is figured that Maryland almost surely, if all of last year's material returns, can get a pretty nigh first-string line, but the question of reserves offers a task that will take plenty of work to overcome, if it is to be done at all.

Juniors prevail among the left-over material, there being only four Seniors in the 28 from the 1929 aggregation requested to report, the other 15 coming from last fall's Freshman squad that contained only one lineman to weigh more than 173 pounds. It was the backs, Woods and Poppleman in particular, who carried the yearlings to four wins and one tie in five tilts.

Maryland at any rate will have to depend upon speed and strategy, as it has in the past, for whatever measure of success it may gain this fall, as there are only four men on the squad who weigh 190 pounds or better and most of them scale from 180 downward, with those under 170 being in the great majority.

PERSONALS

Clarence G. Donovan, '17, who for sometime has been located at Altoona, Pa., is now living at 4529 44th Street, Washington, D. C.

H. W. Fristoe, '17, has changed his residence from Baton Rouge, La., to 720 Evergreen Street, W. Lafayette, Ind.

Howard A. England, '25, for sometime connected with the Simpson Milk Plant in Frederick, Md., has taken a position with the West Mar Creamery at Elkins, W. Va.

R. Forrest, '18, a far-traveling member of his class, who has been in Oregon, now is located at Oxon Hill, Anacostia.

Chief Beatty, '27, goes to Long Branch, N. J., his home town, as instructor and coach of athletics. His future address will be 206 Westwood Ave. He was at Washington College for two years.

Dr. F. Reeder Gough, '99, who is engaged in medical practice at Barnesville, Md., was seen in Frederick recently by Dr. T. B. Symons. Dr. Symons said that Dr. Gough appeared healthy and prosperous.

Dr. Charles F. Russell, '67, an alumnus of the Medical School, has been reelected Adjutant of Marr Camp, Confederate Veterans of Fairfax, Va. Dr. Russell is 91 years old.

F. A. "Fuzzy" Furst, '15, while visiting his classmate, J. A. Miller, '15, of College Park, viewed the campus improvements and hunted for some of the old landmarks. Fuzzy is a man of distinction as manager of the engineering department of the Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing Company at Detroit, Mich. "Bill" Kemp said he was looking fine.

Gordon Kessler, '29, formerly a coach in athletics at Langdon School, Washington, D. C., now is employed in the United States Patent Office, with the intention of taking Patent Law. During the summer he has been teaching some evening classes at Emerson Institute, Washington, D. C. Gordon is married and has a son.

J. Edward Mills, '25, appeared on the campus after being in Georgia for several years in the pecan industry. Mills spoke of having seen several Maryland men in Georgia. He intends to send in all names of Maryland men whom he meets in foreign fields. Mills is located in Cardell, Ga.

Robert Crain, '24, paid the campus a visit recently. "Bob" now is an advertising writer, and, if you remember the water wagon drawn by two Belgian Police Dogs at football games back in 1921, you will realize that he has the originality needed for the work.

Austin Diggs, '21, bobbed up the other day and asked a most peculiar question: "Are they going to play football here this fall?"

"Bobby" Knode, '20, who for sometime played professional baseball, has entered the coaching profession at Findlay Senior High School, Findlay, Ohio. He is director of athletics.

Delta Sigma Phi's new $32,000 home, now under construction, is located on Wellesly Avenue, adjoining the campus. Its construction is under the supervision of F. C. Carrico, '25, and E. F. Zalesak, '25.

George Madigan, '30, who is studying for his Master's degree here is at present performing an experiment with the larvae of salamanders for Dr. Uhlenhuth, of the Medical School in Baltimore.

Ralph McPherson, who until recently was located in Easton, Md., has changed his address to Edinburg Road and Sharpe Avenue, Trenton, N. J.

"Frosh" Class Large as '30-'31 Term Opens

Freshman Group of Over 500 Gives College Park Schools Total of 1,400 Students

THE SCHOOLS of the University at College Park got under way September 19 after a strenuous three-day registration. Those in Baltimore opened their 10-day registration period September 29 and a large enrolment is expected. As will be seen by the large freshman enrolment the University is making tremendous progress toward a much larger institution. The freshman registration, the largest in history, to the tune of 500, swells the total enrolment to 1,400 students at College Park.

Overcrowded

In spite of the fact that the facilities are being rapidly increased to meet the rapid growth of the University, the institution will nevertheless be overtaxed during the 1930-31 term.

The class of '34 was entertained at a reception by Dr. R. A. Pearson in the Ritchie Gymnasium, September 17.

Freshmen are expected to show a keen interest in athletics and a large squad is likely to report for all teams.

The "sophs" have already mobilized the "Rats" and given them the rules and by-laws of the freshman code. Now they are drilling them in the art of cheering.

The freshmen were immediately branded by the traditional insignia, "Rat Caps."

Cub Squad Out

"Jack" Faber, freshman football coach, called out the yearlings on the opening of school, September 19, but of course has not had a chance to get a line on the players.

Ross Smith, '29, is to become an agricultural teacher at the Bel Air High School, Bel Air, Md., this fall.

Wm. P. Cole, Jr., '09, Congressional Nominee

William P. Cole, Jr., familiarty known to all University of Maryland alumni as "Bill" Cole, graduated from the old Maryland Agricultural College, in engineering with the class of 1909.

Immednately after that he entered the old University of Maryland Law School, in Baltimore, and, after finishing there, was admitted to the practice of law. He opened offices in Towson where he soon built up an excellent law business and in a short time became one of the leading members of the bar.

It was inevitable that "Bill" would enter the field of politics. His father, William P. Cole, Sr., for many years was Clerk of the Court for Baltimore County and a political power in that county. "Bill" had politics "bred in the bone" and it was not a surprise to his legion of friends when in 1926 he became a candidate for Congress and was elected by a tremendous majority. At the end of his term he

Yale Tilt To Test Mettle Of Eleven

Bulldogs Will Be Waiting For Old Liners In View of Events of Last Four Years

MARYLAND'S football team, which swung into action against Washington College Sept. 27, is looking forward to its first real test of the campaign in the October 4th game with Yale in the big bowl at New Haven.

The Yale Bulldogs will be waiting for the Old Liners with sharpened teeth, as in the last four years Maryland has beaten the Elis twice, tied them once and lost once. Last fall's battle was a 13-13 deadlock, Maryland matching Yale's earlier touchdowns by gathering a pair late in the game.

Game Much Earlier

This year the contest is being played much earlier than usual, being shifted from the second Saturday in November to the first in October. Yale felt that playing Maryland just before taking on Princeton and Harvard was too big a dose.

The change of date will send both elevens into battle without much of a tryout, but the Elis met Maine on September 27, an eleven that has considerably more power than Washington College, the Old Liners' opening foe.

Maryland's chances in its arduous 12-game schedule depend greatly upon what is shown at center by "Skippy" Faber, last year's reserve; "Bob" Wilson, reserve guard last fall, and Paul Cronin, utility back in 1929. Faber is a pretty fair performer, but is rather slow and light and, of course, Wilson and Cronin must be developed in the essentials of the position.

Has Array of Backs

Otherwise, with the exception that some reserve linemen must come through, the team is pretty well fixed, as the squad boasts a fine array of backs, with three full quartets toiling.

In fact, the backfield appears to possess all the requisites of a good attack, running, passing, punting, and pass-catching ability. That leaves it up to the line, the center in particular.

While "Curley" Byrd has not fully made up his mind as to his tentative first team, it is more than likely that the 11 men to start against Yale will

Happy Days

It is felt, without a doubt, that if alumni of any college or university were approached and asked if their college days were "Happy Days" the majority would answer in the affirmative. In one sense of the word those days are here again. School is open, the football season is on and alumni "Get-together" feeling is in everybody's bones. You have noticed the alumni calendar and games that the alumni "Get-togethers" will follow. These gatherings are being organized and conducted by alumni with that good old spirit for their Alma Mater. During the month of October there are three outstanding games that hold the attention of all alumni and Maryland followers—Yale, North Carolina, and Virginia Military Institute. There will be many alumni who will attend these games, and following the game they should take the advantage of attending the alumni "Get-together."

The meeting of graduates from College Park and Baltimore colleges of the University, as well as the football team and coaches, is certainly an attraction. This affords an exceptional opportunity for the alumni of both branches to become better acquainted, to meet the gridiron squad and its coaches. There does not seem to be any reason why the Baltimore and College Park colleges should not be affiliated with the one big purpose in mind—to make a much larger and stronger Alumni Association of the University of Maryland.

To meet fellow alumni and "hob nob" over old times is certainly a return to "Happy Days," and especially during the season of the outstanding collegiate sport, football.

Anna Dorsey Now Teaching

Anna E. Dorsey, B. S., '25, M. S., '26, has completed with high honors her fellowship at the Mayo Foundation at the University of Minnesota. Miss Dorsey has accepted a professorship as bacteriologist in the division of experimental bacteriology, Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minnesota. She has two publications worthy of note—"Bacteriology and Pathogenesis of Appendicitis" and "Bacteriology of the Blood in Chronic Infectious Arthritis." More power to Anna.

W. & L. Football Clash Features Home-Coming

While Maryland will take part in five football games prior to that time, the old grads want to keep in mind that the clash with the Washington and Lee "Generals" on November 9 will be the "Home-coming Day" at College Park.

Washington and Lee, one of the most colorful Dixie teams that Maryland plays, always has a good eleven, and their games with the Old Liners all have been decided by close scores and marked by fine play.

In their last meeting, in a game in Washington in 1928, the Old Liners won, 6 to 0, when "Snitz" Snyder toted the ball nearly 50 yards on nine rushes for the lone touchdown.

Maryland vs. Yale
New Haven, Conn.

When Maryland visits Yale, October 4, it will play its first important game of the season. Maryland, who has played Yale for a number of years, has won many friends and supporters in that section. The winning of several of the contests and tying some, as well as always making a good showing, has aroused no little interest in this game.

A "Get-together" following the game, under the enthusiastic guidance of Dr. D. F. ("Danny") Keegan, will be held at the Garde Hotel, New Haven, Conn. Don't fail to attend the game and then the "Get-together."

Maryland vs. North Carolina
Chapel Hill, N. C.

University of North Carolina, a team of no little note in the Southern Conference and with whom Maryland has had relation for many years, will be encountered in the first Southern game, October 11. Following the game, an alumni "Get-together" will be held under the supervision of Prof. R. H. Ruffner, of N. C. S., at the Carolina Inn, Chapel Hill. We are expecting a nice gathering of Maryland Alumni residing in the Southern States, both from the Baltimore and College Park colleges.

Maryland vs. V. M. I.
Richmond, Virginia

The alumni located in Virginia will be given their first opportunity to see the football team in action, October 25, when we meet V. M. I. in Richmond. Taylor Rowe, 316 N. Henry St., Richmond, an enthusiastic rooter for Maryland, will be the key man of the "Get-together." "Massa" Rowe is looking forward to many alumni being present from all branches of the University.

Don't Forget!

Make your plans NOW to attend the grand assembly of ALL ALUMNI at College Park on Alumni and Class Day, 1931. Arrangements are being made now to have a Grand Reunion from the class of 1807 on up. A member of your class has volunteered to keep you posted as to details. Co-operate with him and make this the greatest gathering of alumni of the University of Maryland in history.

Scrimmage With All-Marines

Maryland's varsity gridders got a lot of good out of three scrimmages they held with the All-Marines at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, September 13, 15, and 16. The Marines moved their grid base from Quantico, Va., to the Quaker City.

Graduate's Conversation Recalls Amusing Incident

"Nat" Goodwin, '20, and "Charley," the Barber, in a conversation recently recalled the time when "Andy" Nesbit, before the Virginia football game in 1921, was suffering from a pain in his tummy and tried to cure it by using Sloan's liniment, which proved a case where the cure was worse than the ailment. It was a warm day and the exertion, with the heat and the jersey adding to the irritation, surely was tormenting to "Andy." Finally cold water was brought to his aid with his fellow football players forming a human screen. Fanning also was necessary to give relief.

"Bucky" Clemson Candidate For Rooting Championship

"Bucky" Clemson, Baltimore dentist, is a candidate for champion rooter for Maryland teams. He is one alumnus who spends a great portion of his off-hours at College Park and seldom misses a game of any importance in any sport. In fact, "Bucky" runs down frequently during the fall to watch the gridders practice.

He subscribes to all publications gotten out at College Park, including even the year-book, and, when he meets up with someone in touch with athletic affairs at Maryland, he can ask more questions than a Philadelphia lawyer.

It would be fine if every alumnus would take a leaf out of Clemson's book.

again ran for Congress in 1928, but went down, as did many other good Democrats in the Republican landslide of that year.

This fall "Bill" again is candidate for the Congress. He got more votes in the primary than did both his opponents, which is a real tribute to him, because both his opponents are prominent men. "Bill" Cole in all probability will again be elected to Congress, largely because he is the type of man who is honest and fearless in his convictions and who the people know has at heart the best interests of those he represents.

The University of Maryland recognizes him as one of her distinguished alumni and would back him to the limit in anything he undertook, because he is the type of man who would undertake nothing except that which has embodied in it the highest ideals and the best interests of the State.

PERSONALS

Amos Beachley, '27, is, with civilian status, a member of the Ordnance Department of the U. S. Army, on Ballistic Work at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

"Moon" Crawford, '27, another with civilian status, is in the Plant Design Department of the Chemical Warfare Division, U. S. Army, now located at Edgewood Arsenal.

"Chat" Hughes, '30, is a member of the Army Aviation School at San Antonio, Texas. He writes back that he is having a great time and doing fine. First solo flight "washed out" (means failed), as the aviation expression goes, 35 students of a class of 120.

"Ed" Wheeler, '29, breezed in on his way to the main office of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads with which he is employed. During the past summer he was on duty in West Virginia and at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds. He will be located in the main office, Washington, D. C., until October 15, when he expects to join the Army Aviation School at San Antonio, Texas.

Lawrence Lahman, '26, has entered the picturesque profession of teaching Indians. Lawrence is a teacher in the Lehigh Indian School at Mesa, Arizona. He is married and has two children. This summer he has been doing more studying in the art of Indian teaching by taking a special course near Tia Juana, Mexico.

"Jack" Wisner, '23, is living near Rockville, Maryland, where he has a home, a wife, and two boys. "Jack" is employed by the Lake Stone Company of Washington. The president of the Company, Mr. Lake, has a son in Maryland at the present time.

L. E. Newcomer, '26, is now employed by the U. S. D. A. Bureau of Economics as a shipping-point inspector for fruits and vegetables in the Southeastern States.

Frank H. Terhune, '27, who has been serving in no little capacity in the Y. M. C. A., New Jersey, will take a position as boys' work secretary at Plainfield, N. J. The Terhunes, with welcome on the mat, will live at 34 Regent Street, N. Plainfield, N. J.

A. F. Weirich, '29, who joined the civil engineering staff of Proctor and Gamble in the construction of a new plant in Baltimore, has been transferred to their home office in Cincinnati, Ohio. The address now is 2070 Worth Avenue, Norwood, Ohio.

Great Interest Centers In Battle With Navy, Which Has Not Been Met Since 1917

ALTHOUGH Maryland will be playing its seventh game of the season in its Home-coming Day engagement with Washington and Lee November 8, it still will have five more hard games after that.

Following the set-to with the Generals, all the Old Liners have left are clashes with Virginia Poly at Norfolk, November 15, Navy at Annapolis, November 22, Hopkins at Baltimore, Thanksgiving Day, Vanderbilt in Nashville, November 29, and Western Maryland in Baltimore, December 6.

Particular interest centers in the game with Navy, the first meeting between the Old Liners and Midshipmen

Contest Should Be Close Affair If Performances in Past Mean Anything

IF MARYLAND and Washington and Lee live up to past perfomances in their meetings, their football game at College Park on Home-coming Day, November 8, should be a corker and a thriller.

They will be meeting for the sixth time on the gridiron when they take the field here and the Old Liners have been able to walk off with one victory. This was in 1928, the last time they met, when Maryland gained a 6-to-0 edge in a bitter struggle.

However, every one of the past five engagements were stirring contests, the margin never being more than a touchdown, except back in 1924, when the Generals scored by 19 to 7.

OUR TEAM

If anybody at the University of Maryland were superstitious, he certainly would feel that the football team representing the University has a jinx attached to it, as the Old Liners certainly have seemed to play in the toughest kind of luck in their games with Yale and North Carolina, especially against the latter.

October 11, at Chapel Hill, Maryland apparently did everything just a little bit better than North Carolina, yet it lost by four touchdowns to three. That, from a jinx standpoint, might be attributed to luck, but nothing would be further from the fact.

Maryland has a good football team. That it has offensive power has been proved by 14 points against Yale, and 21 against North Carolina. And, as far as any consistent running or forward-passing attack is concerned, the Old Liners have most of the time stopped everything their opponents have had to offer. Under such conditions it might seem a part in the victories its opponents have won. However, the actual truth is that Maryland has, in comparison with the teams it has met, an inexperienced "green" eleven; and the margin which has given the other elevens victory is the margin that lies between inexperience and experience.

It has been a case of experience taking advantage of the mistakes of the inexperienced. However, if the Old Liners continue to profit by their mistake, there will be another story to tell before the season is over.

Many who saw the two games lost feel that if Maryland had held the ball as well in the Yale game as they did against North Carolina they would have won from Yale.

Several members of the football team virtually played no football at all before entering Maryland. Consequently Maryland will get better as the season goes on and it is far from bad now. Home-coming Day should see an improved football team that is composed mostly of junior and sophomore players.

President Whiteford Backs Home-coming

The Home-coming Day is that day among days that should receive the honest support of every alumnus. The program will give every opportunity for returning alumni to see all that Maryland has in the way of football teams, also a chance to wind up the day in a blaze of social glory at the Supper Dance and Home-coming Hop in Ritchie Gymnasium.

H. C. Whiteford

I personally urge as many alumni and their friends as possible to attend the Supper Dance in the Ritchie Gymnasium. This, I feel, is a feature of the day that will be greatly appreciated by all members of the Alumni Association.

I will be there and looking for you. Don't miss it. Yours,

H. C. ("Dick") Whiteford.

Maryland Alumni Group Started In Far South

Following the University of North Carolina football game, Oct. 11 at Chapel Hill, a group of alumni from both branches of the University had an enjoyable "get-together" at Carolina Inn. "Curley" Byrd, Dr. Bomberger, and Mr. Watkins gave the group very interesting talks on the progress being made by the institution. Inspired by the "get-together," several of the alumni expressed their intention to return for Home-coming Day.

With an attendance of more than 25 people, this "get-together" will be the nucleus for forming a large and prominent Southern Regional Group of the Alumni Association. Prof. R. H. Ruffner, located at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C., is the chairman of the group. Prof. Ruffner will appreciate a visit by alumni whenever they pass his way. He also feels that they are off for a growing organization.

FIVE MORE CLASHES ON FOOTBALL LIST

on the gridiron since 1917, although they have been meeting in other sports and providing one of the big contests each year in lacrosse.

Western Maryland has not been beaten since the Old Liners took their measure back in 1928 and doubtless will go into the December 6 contest with a clean slate for 1930.

Vanderbilt, which sprang one of the biggest upsets of the early season by trimming Minnesota, 33 to 7, probably is the most formidable foe Maryland will run into all year. Minnesota later played a scoreless tie with Stanford.

"M" Club Members Urged To Attend Home-coming

The day's events for Home-coming have been so arranged that all alumni may attend with the maximum of convenience and pleasure. From the starting whistle for the "Frosh" game at 10 A. M., there will not be a dull moment throughout the day, and a large response from the alumni, both in attendance and enthusiasm, may be expected.

J. B. Gray

I particularly urge all "M" Club members to attend the luncheon and business meeting at 12:30. "Bill" Kemp assures us that a delightful luncheon will be served, and the business meeting is a matter of vital importance to the continued usefulness of the club.

Then, too, each "M" Club man is expected to "whoop up" a lot of interest among his friends and neighbors of the alumni, not only in the W. & L. game, which should be a corker, but also in the brand-new idea of a supper-dance, where all the old boys and their friends may gather immediately after the game and spend a few hours in pleasant comradeship.

Let's go for a big attendance on Home-coming Day.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Some Good Players on Freshman Squad

Maryland has several pretty good prospects on its freshman football squad which went down to Chapel Hill and defeated the North Carolina tar babies, 13 to 12, in the first game of the season.

"Jack" Faber and "Al" Heagy, former Old Line athletes, are teaching the youngsters the tricks of the trade and doing a good job of it, although most of their material has had little experience.

Benner, Mayhew, Holbrook, Knott, and Kilroy are from Washington, D. C.; Vincent, Wright, Sothoron, and Clabaugh are Marylanders; while Honadle is from Pennsylvania, and Shinn from New Jersey.

Johns Hopkins Staging Comeback In Football

Johns Hopkins, Maryland's traditional rival, has a lot of football material this year, and should have a capable team by the time the clash with the Old Liners on Thanksgiving day in the Baltimore Stadium rolls around. In fact, Hopkins is planning a distinct comeback on the gridiron and will be a tough foe again for Maryland. By the season of 1931, at least, if not this fall, the Blue Jays should be flying high.

This also means that other sports there will be on the up-grade, and Maryland will meet them in everything they have.

From The University Review, October 14, 1920

Princeton defeated Maryland, 35 to 0, in football, although the latter played a beautiful game in the first half. Injuries to Pagannucci and Brewer, who sustained dislocated shoulders, and "Andy" Nesbit, who received a kick that completely knocked him out, were largely responsible for the score.

Senator Tydings Real Fan

United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, '08, has seen both of the football games that have been played at College Park this fall. He has been on the bench with the team both times.

Maryland Football Team Gets Publicity in Paris

There is international as well as national interest shown in the Maryland football team and its coach, "Curley" Byrd. This was indicated by a clipping from the Paris edition of the New York Herald sent home by Dr. Auchter, head of our horticultural department, who is the American delegate to the international horticultural and agricultural sessions held in Europe this summer. The article originated at College Park and was distributed far and wide by the Associated Press. It told about the football outlook at Maryland for 1930.

Cross-Country Losses Hurt

The cross-country squad has only a fair outlook for this year, due to the loss of two aces from last year's team. Urban Lindsay, captain of last year's team, and "Jack" Savage, captain of the present team, have been lost, the former through graduation and the latter by the effect of an old operation. Ralph Shure looms as the possible mainstay of the present squad.

A baby party was given to the new girls at Maryland. The freshman were dressed as children, and when they had performed all the required stunts they were given lollypops and cookies.

Old Liners Stronger Than Scores Indicate

Old grads and others who come back to College Park on November 8 to see the Maryland football team play Washington and Lee, in the feature attraction of Home-coming festivities, will view a high-powered and versatile Old Line eleven in action.

When this was written, the Old Line gridders had played four games and, although they had won only two of them, they might easily have taken the other two had it not been for the breaks going the other way.

Maryland has piled up 17 touchdowns in beating Washington College, 60 to 6; losing to Yale, 13 to 40; bowing to North Carolina, 21 to 28, and beating St. John's, 21 to 13.

The Yale score is entirely misleading. Maryland really should have won the game, for it marched up and down the field, never being held for downs, but fumbled away touchdowns and presented them to Yale by the same method. It was just one of those days when it could not hold on to the ball.

Maryland also greatly outgained North Carolina, but lost out on a couple of slips in a tilt that for thrills had few, if any, equals.

St. John's was given a much worse beating than the score indicates, although the Old Line rooters had cold chills running up and down their spines in the late stages of the contest.

The Old Line regulars scored three touchdowns in the first three periods, missed two others by inches, and were leading, 21 to 0, when "Curley" Byrd decided to let the reserves play the last quarter. St. John's feasted on the second-stringers for two touchdowns, but the reserves finally pulled themselves together and were only 18 yards from the Johnnies' goal when the final whistle blew.

When the Maryland regulars are on the field they can go, and Byrd also can make a number of substitutions, one at a time, that do not materially affect the team, but he hasn't a wholesale lot of good reserves, not by any means.

Grid Tilt With Navy Nov. 22 To Go on Air

WASHINGTON & LEE HOME-COMING TILT

Here is the complete record:

1924—Maryland, 7; Washington and Lee, 19. (Central High School Stadium in Washington.)

1925—Maryland, 3; Washington and Lee, 7. (College Park.)

1926—Maryland, 0; Washington and Lee, 3. (Lexington.)

1927—Maryland, 6; Washington and Lee, 13. (College Park.)

1928—Maryland, 6; Washington and Lee, 0. (American League Park in Washington.)

There was no game last season, as the teams were unable to get together on a date, but it is planned to make the contest an annual affair in the future.

Many Old Line followers will recall the game at College Park in 1925, which Maryland apparently had "sewed up," only to toss it away in the last couple of minutes. The Old Liners were leading, 3 to 0, and were marching steadily toward the Generals' goal, when the Maryland quarter-back got in a hurry to score and called for a forward pass. Instead of getting it to a Maryland man, he tossed into the arms of Palmer, the fleetest rival on the field, and the ball was run back to a point from where Washington and Lee was able to count a touchdown and pull the game out of the fire.

It has been said, and not facetiously, that the Maryland player in question was voted a Washington and Lee letter that fall. "He was the best player we had that day," a Washington and Lee athletic official said.

At any rate, that is history, and we hope none of those who come to College Park November 8 will witness anything like it.

But, if there is anything in past performances, a great game should be on tap for Home-coming. Maryland, in the language of Roy Octavus Cohen, will be meeting one of its enemies it is most fondest of.

PERSONALS

"Roy" Deibert, '27, is employed by the Baldwin Manufacturing Company, located at Elks Mills. He recently married Miss Ruth Lawrence, the daughter of one of the owners of the company. "Roy," we understand, has just finished building a new house in Elks Mills.

Miss Edith Frothingham, secretary to the director of athletics, "Curley" Byrd, has resumed her duties after a serious illness this summer that caused her to spend practically her entire vacation in the hospital. We are very glad that Miss Frothingham will again look after our advance requests for football tickets.

J. Hanson Mitchell, '98, is now affiliated with Oil Heat, Inc., at 1125 North Charles Street, Baltimore, Md. Hanson is an outstanding alumni leader and always appreciates meeting with Maryland alumni.

O. S. Twilley, '21, is located with the Wm. Atlee Burpee Seed Company, of Philadelphia, Pa. His home is in Landsdowne, Pa.

Joseph B. Himmelheber's ('23) artistic drawings of historical and prominent buildings about Washington are receiving publicity in the rotogravure section of the Washington Star. His recent sketch of the Lincoln Memorial got front-page space.

Rev. Preston L. Peach, '03, who has been principal of the Anglo-Chinese School in China, hopes to return to the U. S. in 1931 in time for the grand reunion of all classes of the University, and wants to see many of his schoolmates.

National fraternities on the campus have been increased by the addition of two more. The local Delta Psi Omega is now Alpha Tau Omega, and the local Nu Sigma Omicron becomes Phi Delta Theta.

John P. Malley, '22, manager of the southern division branch of the American Trust Company, in San Francisco, Cal., is one of Maryland's enthusiastic alumni who has trotted to the Pacific Coast.

Wellstood White, '05, was host to the Old Line Club's business meeting at the University Club of Washington, D. C. White is manager of the Washington firm of Dulin & Martin.

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Thomas, '28, are the proud parents of a seven-pound daughter, born October 3. Mr. Thomas, better known as "Knocky," was among the best half-backs to perform for Maryland on the gridiron.

MARRIAGES

Morrison M. Clark, '22, married Miss Blanche Griffith, of Silver Spring, Md., in Washington, D. C., October 4. George Luckey, '23, was best man.

Lonesome Cowboy Married

John I. White, '24, known as the Lonesome Cowboy to the radio world, married Miss Augusta Postles, of Washington, D. C., October 4. After a honeymoon in the North, they will live in New York City, where John is employed by the Socony Touring Service.

"Johnny" Parsons, '29, versatile Maryland athlete, has taken up coaching athletics at John Handley High School, Winchester, Va. "Johnny" took another important step in his life by getting married, August 21.

Head-line and comments read in Carolina like this: "Carolina Wins Terrific Battle by Single Touchdown." "Shorty Branch's 92-yard punt return for final-quarter score enables Tarheel to gain a 28-to-21 victory over Maryland." "The Maryland game was the most spectacular fooball duel that has graced the Kenan stadium since its dedication."

Marylanders Lose Navy Battle, 6-0

Many Thousand Gridiron Fans See Maryland Have Edge After Jolt At Start

MARYLAND lost a thrilling football game to Navy on the second play of the contest at Annapolis last Saturday.

Kirn, of Navy, after apparently being stopped at the line of scrimmage, got to his feet in some way and kept on going until he traveled 65 yards across the goal.

After that wild dash, Maryland pulled itself together and had the edge on the Midshipmen to the finish, getting inside the five-yard mark three times, only to fail.

Navy's only other threat was halted at the 14-yard mark, from where a futile attempt at a field goal was made.

Statistics told the Navy gained a total of 229 yards to 198 for Mary-

GRADUATES and former students of Maryland back to the 90's spent an active Home-coming day. Action was opened by Jack Faber's yearlings who took a licking from the Washington and Lee freshman, but only by a lone touchdown in the last quarter. The freshman gave those alumni who came early an exhibition of football which indicates the kind of material in store for the varsity next year.

"M" Club Meets

Immediately following the freshman game, many grads and "M" Club members accepted the open doors of the dining-hall cafeteria for a delightful and enjoyable lunch. Miss Marie Mount, director of the dining-hall was pleased in seeing the alumni

"Al" Woods' Service While Marine Is Recognized By Republic Of Nicaragua

"AL" Woods, Maryland's sophomore half-back of all-around ability, was decorated and cited by the Nicaraguan government in ceremonies celebrated at College Park on November 17, 1930.

Woods who served four years in the Marine Corps between the time he was graduated from Columbia, Missouri, High School, until he matriculated at Maryland, was six months in Nicaragua.

He was one of the 35 Marines who were trapped while defending the town of Ocatol in May, 1927. They fought off 500 Nicaraguan rebels for 17 hours before being rescued by a squadron of American airplanes which routed the enemy with a spray of bombs.

SUPPER-DANCE

Nothing could have happened that would have been more pleasant and satisfactory to the alumni on Home-coming day than the Alumni Supper-Dance. It bridged over that time between the game and the annual Home-coming Dance in such wonderful fashion that nothing but laudatory comment was expressed. The gym was open immediately following the game and the supper-dance began at 5:30 P. M. Here the alumni met with friends and faculty of all groups and affiliations of the University. It was a real informal and congenial alumni "get-together," an affair that ended a wonderful day in "tip-top" fashion.

STRAY ALUMNI

When the notice in regard to the tickets for the Navy-Maryland football game at Annapolis was sent out, it revealed some interesting facts as well as caused some confusion and embarrassment. Many last-minute requests came from people who were former students of Maryland, but, not having graduated, did not think they were eligible for the Alumni Association. Also, there were many who were graduates but who were not on the mailing list, due to their negligence in not sending in their change of address. Therefore, they did not receive the notice. This caused the athletic office much confusion and embarrassment, as the notice read that requests would be filled in the order received, as there were not enough tickets to go around.

This only goes to prove that it is very necessary to keep constantly in touch with the alumni office for fear that you may lose out when something important is going on.

The alumni office will make every effort to check on the list; however, this can not be done efficiently if the members do not keep the office informed when there is a change in address.

This is a warning; if your address is not correct, notify this office at once; if you know of any one who was a former student at any time and not on the list, send in his name.

President Pearson and Family

Dr. and Mrs. Pearson and their daughter Ruth were among the loyal Maryland rooters on Home-coming Day. Dr. Pearson feels that Home-coming Day is a day that should receive the support of the entire University. Dr. and Mrs. Pearson also attended the Alumni Home-coming Supper-Dance where they met many of the old and new grads in an informal and congenial way.

Dignitaries At Maryland Navy Game Get Bouquets

Floral bouquets of American Beauty roses were presented to Admiral and Mrs. S. S. Robinson, of the U. S. Naval Academy, and to Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, at the Navy-Maryland football game at Annapolis. Three demoiselles from the co-educational branch of the University made the presentation while the University band played an appropriate accompaniment. The young ladies were: Misses Eleanor Baumel, Ada Conklin, and Elizabeth Norton.

THREE LOYAL ROOTERS

DR. BOMBERGER, SENATOR TYDINGS
DR. FRIEDENWAHL

These three loyal rooters can boast of seeing Maryland play many a football game at home and abroad. Here they are on the bench when the Home-coming game arrived.

Dr. F. B. Bomberger, '94, now a member of the athletic board of the University misses only those games that unavoidable circumstances prohibit.

Senator M. E. Tydings, '10, can always be seen on the Maryland bench when the team is playing within a range that does not take him far from official duties.

Dr. E. B. Friedenwahl, an instructor as well as an alumnus of the Medical School, said that going to the Maryland football games is his way of spending a vacation. He boasts of the fact that he has not missed a game that Maryland has played this year, and doesn't intend to if possible.

SUPPER-DANCE, FEATURE OF HOME-COMING

make use of the cafeteria when returning to the campus. Following the luncheon, the annual meeting of the "M" Club was held in the Home Economic's Building. Several interesting topics were discussed and prominent among them was the resolution by Mr. James M. Burns that the club sponsor the choosing of an all-time Maryland football team by the entire Alumni Association; this was accepted with favor and interest. The entire personnel was reelected to serve another term.

The Home-coming game with Washington and Lee, although one-sided, was a spectacular and interesting game for the alumni for they saw many gridders show their worth under fire.

Supper-Dance Popular

Following the game, the feature of the day began at 5:30 in the Ritchie Gym, the Home-coming Alumni Supper-Dance, where the grads of all classes, organizations, and affiliations had a real "Maryland Get-together." Actually it was a juvenile get-together in a unique and congenial way. The gym was decorated in black and gold streamers forming a dome. Around the edge of the gym there were tables arranged in the style of a Fifth Avenue cabaret with ample room for dancing. The tables were decorated in black and gold with novelty napkins with athletic figures on them and novelty hats for each guest, which added much color to the occasion. The alumni sat about the tables, smoked, talked, and danced and for three hours lived the life of kings.

The annual Home-coming Dance began at 9 P. M. when the alumni were joined by many of the undergraduates who added the youthful spice and gayety that ended for the old grad a most joyful day that will be well remembered.

Many of the old grads said when leaving, "Those who have missed this day have missed a wonderful time."

John M. Leach, '29, was married July 4, to Miss Back, of Washington, D. C.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Old Liners Vanquish Virginia's 'Big Four'

Assert Superiority In Elevens Of Northernmost Section of Dixie Conference

When it went into the Navy battle at Annapolis on November 22, the Maryland football team had five victories in a row behind it.

It has scored over St. John's, of Annapolis, 21-13, and then cleaned up the "Big Four" of Virginia, to take its place as the leading eleven in the northernmost sector of the Southern Conference.

Here is how the Old Dominion was vanquished: October 25—Virginia Military Institute, 21-0, at Richmond, Va.; November 1—Virginia, 14-6, at Charlottesville, Va.; November 8—Washington and Lee, 41-7, at College Park; November 15—Virginia Poly, 13-7, at Norfolk, Va. While some of the scores may look close, in none of the games was the Old Liners pressed. This is particularly true of the St. John's game, as the Old Liners were leading, 21-0, with about seven minutes to go. Then a swarm of reserves were sent in and St. John's got two touch-downs.

Maryland was in command in the other games, at all times, a fumble giving Virginia its lone score and Virginia Poly not counting until the last four minutes.

In only the Virginia Poly game were all the Old Line regulars available and only in this contest did the first stringers stick to the finish except for one forced substitution.

Maryland showed offensive power in all of the contests when it had to put on pressure, but was handicapped greatly in the Virginia Poly game by the heavy going.

Md. Is Real Rival of Middies

When Maryland and Navy clashed at football on November 22 at Annapolis in the first of a three-game series that doubtless will go on indefinitely, it brought the Old Liners and Midshipmen together in all sports that both support.

While they also meet in baseball, track, tennis, rifle-shooting, and cross-country, it is the basket-ball and lacrosse battles that have provided the high spots besides football. Basket-ball and lacrosse occupy feature places on the Naval Academy lists.

Prior to this season, Maryland and Navy had met five times in football, the first time being when the "Aggies" triumphed back in 1888. Navy won in games of 1905, 1906, 1916, and 1917.

"Curley" Byrd played in the 1905 and 1906 games, while "Bill" Ingram, Navy coach, was the Middies' star in the 1917 clash.

land, but the Middies' yardage included Kirn's sprint and most of the ground covered by the Annapolitans was around midfield territory while the Old Liners' was mainly in the enemy's domain.

It was a tough game to lose, but Maryland lost no prestige in the narrow defeat and gained many more friends by its game comeback after the sudden and terrific jolt at the start.

Game With Terrors To Wind-up Season

Maryland Tackles Experienced And Heavy Foe in Baltimore On December 6

Although the Johns Hopkins game in the Baltimore Stadium on Thanksgiving Day and the clash with Vanderbilt at Nashville two days later intervenes between the Navy battle and the clash with Western Maryland, December 6, in the big Monumental City amphitheater, it is the game with the last-named team that looms as the big affair for State fans.

Maryland, while it hopes to "take" Western Maryland, has not been able to make any special preparation for the contest, in view of the games that, in such quick order, precede the Baltimore battle which will wind up the Old Liners' 12-game schedule.

The Old Liners and Green Terrors have met a good many times on the gridiron in past years, with Maryland having a big edge, although the complete record has not yet been run. However, since football relations were renewed, two years ago under a four-year agreement, the teams have broken even. Maryland won, 13-6, at College Park; Western Maryland won last fall, 12-0, in the Baltimore Stadium. Both games were real battles.

This time Maryland will meet a heavier and more experienced Terrior eleven than it ever has played before and doubtless will go into the contest the "under-dog."

"Curley" Byrd as usual has a finely coached team, with a clever variety of plays, and the Old Liners are in no way terrified by the Terrors, although they are willing to admit their rivals are all that on the gridiron.

Woods Receiving Medal

Geary Eppley, '21, Elected Master of Pomona Grange

Geary Eppley, professor of agronomy, track coach, and former athletic star, has been chosen master of the Pomona Grange of Prince George's County. "Swede," as he is better known by his associates, takes a very active interest in extra-university activities. The University recognizes Professor Eppley as one of her outstanding alumni and a professor who is honest and a good fellow.

Eleven of Maryland Gridders "Made" Here

It is astonishing to know that on the University of Maryland's football squad there are 11 men out of the 38 members who never played football before coming to College Park. Notable examples of players that are regulars who have been "made" at Maryland are "Bozey" Berger, fleet half-back, and "Jess" Krajcovic, all-State guard last year. Both are juniors and neither were luminaries as members of the freshmen squad.

New Englanders Form Alumni Group In North

At a spirited "get-together" at the Garde Hotel, New Haven, Conn., following the Yale game, another regional group of alumni came into existence. This group is to be headed by Dr. D. F. ("Danny") Keegan, assisted by Dr. L. Quinn. The group was pleased with the opportunity to meet the individual players of the gridiron squad and to hear first-hand information from the guiding hand, "Curley" Byrd.

In a private room of the hotel a business session was held, at which time an extensive program was discussed as how the New England group could best assist in the progress of the University. Details may be gotten from Dr. Keegan and the committee.

OLD LINE GRIDMAN CITED AS WARRIOR

Woods got his touch of college life and his desire to complete his education while scrimmaging with the All-Marine football team, then quartered at Quantico, Va., against the Old Liners at College Park. When his enlistment ran out he got his credits from his old high school, presented them at College Park, and became a member of the class of 1933.

Late in the afternoon of the day he was decorated he just as proudly exhibited, along with his citation and medal, two marks he received in class quizzes. One was a "99" and the other a "91".

"Curley" Byrd pinned the medal on Woods at the decoration ceremonies for which Major Alvin C. Gillem, Jr., professor of military science and tactics, had the entire R. O. T. C. unit of six companies turn out to pay tribute to their fellow student. It was an impressive occasion.

Fred. Linton, '29, is now located with the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York City.

PERSONALS

Wrestling call was sounded on the campus November 12, and a very large class reported.

Dr. John F. Moore, '23, a full-fledged medical man, has become affiliated with the George Washington University Medical School faculty as assistant director of clinics. Communications will reach him there.

Edward F. Juska, '25, has opened an office for the practice of law, at 66 Church Street, Keansburg, New Jersey.

H. C. (Hank) Fox, '29, leaves shortly for India where he will be on duty for an international oil company.

J. A. Butts, '22, connected with the Westinghouse Electric Company, was pictured in a Westinghouse advertisement that appeared recently in the University paper, the Diamondback, as one of the college men who are making rapid progress with that company. Butts is with the headquarters sales department.

Lieut. Edward Pugh, '25, of the U. S. M. C., visited the University on Home-coming Day, as he is here on leave of one month from duty in Nicaragua. Lieutenant and Mrs. Pugh are the proud parents of a fine daughter, born in Nicaragua. "Ed," as he is more familiarly known, was one of Maryland's star athletes who joined the Marines.

Plans Being Formulated For Reunion of Alumni

THE YEAR 1931 was set at the annual alumni meeting last June to be the Grand Reunion Year for all classes at College Park. Now that we have entered the new year we are turning our attention toward the greatest reunion of Marylanders in history. Thirty-five class representatives who were present at the last annual meeting volunteered their services to induce a 100 per cent. return of their classes. They will communicate with you from time to time, keeping you in touch with the arrangements for the reunion of your class.

Seven of Twelve Games Won and Caliber of Play Always Fine—Six On Picked Teams

DESPITE the fact that it won only seven of the 12 games, the 1930 Maryland football team had one of its most successful seasons.

The Old Liners went through a strenuous 12-game list, 11 with major foes, and played good football in every contest. That, in the last analysis, is the real test.

In fact, in most cases, the Old

TOWARD ORGANIZATION

We like to fight, we like to conquer, we like to learn about new adventures, we like to hear new ideas, we like to meet other people, and above all we like to see old friends. Group organizations that have their "get-togethers" make possible all these. It is the groups that make toward organization of a mighty association.

Yes, we are making mighty strides toward cooperation, but it is sporadically, here and there by individual efforts, instead of with a common, unified purpose.

We need more groups organized where none exists at present. Those that are organized will have more "get-togethers" to strengthen the bonds of friendship and loyalty between us all.

We have the vision, but do not know how to realize it. The vision is the perfect organization of an Alumni Association. This will mean every alumnus and alumna doing his or her part of the organizing work by putting their shoulders to the wheel.

Philadelphia Group To Meet

The Philadelphia group of the Alumni Association will hold its annual "get-together" dinner February 4, as announced by John P. Mudd, '07, president of the group. The time and place will be announced in next issue.

Cumberland Group Reports

The office has received a report from Dr. Leo Franklin, president of the Cumberland group, that arrangements are being made for their annual gathering. The date will appear in the next issue.

Frank T. Chesnut, '24, and Miss Helen Abell, of Phoenix, Arizona, were married December 16 in the Princeton Chapel at Princeton, N. J. Frank took his postgraduate work in engineering at Princeton and while there he made many intimate friends. Among them was Rev. Lee Made Member of Honorary Fraternity

Hon. E. Brooke Lee, soldier and statesman, and member of the Board of Regents of the University, was recently made a member of the University of Maryland chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity for those who have shown real accomplishment in leadership.

Mr. Lee is a son of Hon. H. Blair Lee, long a leader of affairs in the State and former United States Senator.

Mr. Lee has been State Comptroller and Speaker of the House of Delegates, but recently gave up his active political associations to turn his full attention to the Northwest Washington Realty Co., of which he is president. It is the largest realty company in the State.

When the world war broke out, Mr. Lee, then a captain in the Maryland National Guard, went to France where he served so valiantly as to receive the Distinguished Service Cross. He returned to America a colonel.

greatest reunion in history the question has arisen as to whether a date other than Monday of Commencement week, which has heretofore been alumni day, would not be more suitable. The alumni board has sent communications to all class representatives and group leaders, giving several possible dates to choose from, in an effort to ascertain, in their opinion, the most practicable date from the majority standpoint.

The alumni board will meet shortly to choose this date. The date selected will appear in the February issue of the NEWS. Preliminary arrangements will begin immediately.

Byrd Chosen President By Dixie Grid Coaches

H. C. ("Curley") Byrd, who began his 19th year as athletic leader and football coach at Maryland this fall, and who in addition holds the more important position of assistant to the president, has been chosen president of the Southern Conference Football Coaches' Association.

Maryland, through "Curley," was one of the charter members of the Southern Conference, and he has been a factor in the affairs of the organization since it was founded more than 10 years ago.

Membership in the conference has made possible alliances that otherwise would not have been brought about and has greatly strengthened Maryland's athletic position. Its rules doubtless are the strictest of any organization in the country.

FOOTBALL SEASON HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Liners were up against more experienced squads and it was only because they were a well-drilled, fighting combination that they fared as well as they did.

Some Pleasing Victories

Victories were scored over Johns Hopkins, traditional rival; Washington and Lee, before the old grads on Home-coming Day, and the "Big Four" of the Old Dominion, these being, in addition to the Generals, Virginia, V. M. I., and V. P. I.

These four wins gave Maryland a 4 to 2 rating and seventh place in the Southern Conference, as the Old Liners were nosed out by North Carolina and beaten by Vanderbilt in other tilts within the Dixie organization.

Maryland gained nearly as much ground as Yale in bowing to the Elis at New Haven; outgained North Carolina in losing a close decision; more than matched Navy in ground gaining in a 6 to 0 defeat; gave Vanderbilt a fine battle, and conceded only a slight edge to Western Maryland's powerful and highly experienced, unbeaten eleven that scored in the last quarter to win, 7 to 0.

On All-State Elevens

Maryland was well represented on the various all-State elevens as picked by Baltimore writers. "Al" Pease, end, and "Jess" Krajcovic, guard, were unanimous choices; "Shorty" Chalmers, back, was on most of the teams, and "Bozey" Berger and "Ray" Poppleman, backs, and "Ernie" Carliss, tackle, were picked by one or more of the experts for their first combinations.

"Jack" Norris, end, was on all the second teams, and "Skippy" Faber, center, was runner-up selection on one squad.

Only five men will be lost from the Old Line 1930 squad of 37. "Bill" Evans, back, and "Bill" Fisher, tackle, will be the only regulars to go, along with John Pitzer, back, and "Joe" Deckman and Paul Butz, line reserves, who did not get into many games.

18 Games Carded For Varsity Five

Tweive To Be Played at College Park And Three Others In Towns Very Nearby

Eighteen games will be played by the Varsity basket-ball team during the 1930-31 campaign, 12 of them at College Park and one each in Washington, Baltimore, and Annapolis.

Nine of the contests are with rivals in the Southern Conference and the list is unusually attractive.

The Old Liners have the honor position on the Navy schedule, meeting the Middies in their final contest, a place formerly occupied by Army.

The schedule:

January 7—Gallaudet.
January 9—Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va.
January 10—V. M. I. at Lexington, Va.
January 15—Duke.
January 17—Loyola
January 19—Washington and Lee.
January 22—Johns Hopkins at Baltimore (Loyola Gymnasium).
January 30—V. M. I.
January 31—V. P. I.
February 2—Virginia at Charlottesville.
February 6—Catholic University at Washington.
February 10—North Carolina.
February 11—Washington College.
February 13—Virginia.
February 14—Western Maryland.
February 17—St. John's College.
February 21—Navy at Annapolis, 2:30 o'clock.
February 25—Johns Hopkins.
February 28—Southern Conference tournament at Atlanta.

(All home games at 8 o'clock.)

Strong Yearling Quint Will Play Twelve Games

"Jack" Faber's freshman basketball squad, one that contains many players of promise, will play 12 games, 10 of which will be at College Park.

Faber has a squad of 13 tossers, and, as most of them are players who shone in scholastic ranks, the outlook is for a team comparable with the great yearling aggregation of two years ago.

The schedule:

January 12—Baltimore High
January 14—Eastern High
January 16—Catholic University Freshman
January 17—Georgetown Freshman at Washington
January 21—Western High.
January 22—Central High.
February 3—Emerson Institute.
February 11—Tech High.
February 14—Catholic University Freshman at Washington.
February 17—St. John's College.
February 19—Georgetown Freshman.
February 21—Plebes at Annapolis.

All-American Mention Given Five Old Liners

In addition to the selection on all-State teams, Maryland had five of its players on the all-America honorable mention lists picked by the All-American Board.

"Bill" Evans, "Shorty" Chalmers, "Al" Woods, and "Bozey" Berger, backs, and "Jess" Krajcovic, guard, were the Old Liners to come in for national consideration.

"Bill" Alexander, Georgia Tech mentor, picked Krajcovic on his all-Southern eleven and the Old Line guard was mentioned on a number of other selected Dixie teams.

Edward Ronkin	f	5-9	160	2
Louis Berger	f-c	6-2	168	2

Bob Wilson	f-g	6	173	1
Charlie May	g	5-8	160	2
John Pitzer	g	5-9	181	3

Berger, all-State center; Gaylor, who led the team in scoring with 154 points; Chalmers, Ronkin, Norris, and May are the letter men remaining.

Wilson was kept out of basketball last season on account of a bad shoulder that forced him to give up football and is yet an uncertain quantity.

"Ship" may find that lack of reserve strength will hurt him, but he should have a formidable first team.

Freshman Eleven Does Well and Wins Twice

Although they won only two of five games during the past football campaign, the Old Line yearlings did well against five strong opponents.

Virginia and North Carolina freshmen were beaten and close games lost to the V. M. I., Washington and Lee, and Georgetown yearlings.

Twenty-seven of the rookies stuck to the finish of the campaign and some good Varsity prospects were noted. Spring practice likely will tell how many will be asked to report for the Varsity squad early next fall.

Date Set For Grand Reunion is June 6

Preliminary Plans For Meeting, Luncheon, Baseball Decided By Alumni Board

THE ALUMNI BOARD met January 16, at the Rennert Hotel, in Baltimore, to discuss the more important question, as to the most suitable date for the holding of the Alumni Grand Reunion of all classes at College Park this year. Those present were: Henry C. Whiteford, '01, president; William Groff, '00, vice-president; Thomas B. Symons, '02, secretary-treasurer; G. F. Pollock, '23, assistant secretary; Sarah Morris, '23, M. M. Clark, '22, Richard Dale, '15, J. Hanson Mitchell, '98, and H. C. "Curley" Byrd, athletic director of the University.

Plans for the reunion were discussed and the date set for Saturday, June 6. A motion was made, that a committee, with the president as chairman, be named to take care of details for the arrangement of the program. Those named in addition to the president, were: William Groff, T. B. Symons, and G. F. Pollock.

The athletic attraction for the day will be a baseball game with Washington and Lee. A suggestion was made that it may be possible to have Admiral Byrd, nationally known explorer, as special guest of the day. Another feature of the day may be the corner-stone laying of the new athletic field house, if operation can be started by that time. It is anticipated that an exhibit of Maryland trophies and pictures of old and new athletic teams will be on display at that time.

In addition to the discussion of the Grand Reunion the committee on the Alumni Loyalty Fund reported that arrangements will be ready for the

Two-Score Years Mark Founding Of Association

The most that can be learned about the birth of the Alumni Association, is that the first regular meetings were held two-score years ago. Since then regular annual meetings have been held, at which time subjects of importance to the university have been discussed and officers elected for the following year. The original purpose of the association was, "To take an active interest in the welfare of the Maryland Agricultural College, and to lend its best efforts in an endeavor to make it an institution of prominence."

All-Time Grid Team Covers Wide Range

Men On Elevens From 1912 to 1929 Are Chosen—Brewer Rated Greatest Kicker

GRIDDERS who played on teams ranging from 1912 to 1929, inclusive, are on the all-time all-Maryland eleven, as picked in a football fanning bee with H. C. Byrd, 19 years at the helm in Old Line athletics.

Selections, with positions and the years they played, follow:

Ends—Bill Supplee, 1923, '24, and '25, and Al Heagy, 1927, '28, and '29.

Tackles—Lyman Oberlin, 1914, '15, and '16, and Joe Burger, 1922, '23, and '24.

Guards—John Hough, 1922, '23, and '24, and Omar Crothers, 1926, '27, and '28.

Center—Caleb (Zeke) Bailey, 1919, '20, '21, and '22*.

Quarterback—William (Country) Morris, 1912 and '13.

Halfbacks—Brooke (Untz) Brewer, 1916, '19, '20, and '21*, and LeRoy Mackert, 1919 and 1920.

Fullback—John McQuade, 1921, '22, and '23.

*Bailey and Burger played four years, as they were in school before the freshman rule was put into effect. Brewer was in war service in 1917 and 1918, accounting for his two years' lapse in playing. Byrd considers him the greatest all-around kicker the game has ever produced.

Al Pease, end; Jess Krajcovic, guard, and Shorty Chalmers, halfback, of the 1930 eleven, may be good enough next fall to crowd off some of those picked.

Johnny Groves, Blondy Fletcher, Mike Stevens, Knocky Thomas, and Snitz Snyder, backs; Tody Riggs and Geary Eppley, ends; "Piggy" Moore, guard; Fuzzy Coster, center, and others who shone in days gone by, came in for serious consideration.

The next issue of The Old Line, new Maryland humorous publication, will appear the early part of this month, according to editor, J. E. Andrews, Jr.

By a conversation with the officers of the Diamondback, a student publication, it was learned that many alumni were on its list of subscribers. This interest in the student activities by the alumni prompted the publishing of the campus notes in the ALUMNI NEWS. The percentage of subscribers may be small, compared to the number of alumni on our mailing list, but it does show that they are interested in the activities of the student body. Many alumni nearby no doubt would wish to attend certain student activities which they themselves were interested in while students. Attending student functions also presents an opportunity for the student to learn more about the purpose of the Alumni Association, and also to keep the interest and spirit of the alumni alive.

The annual report, published in School and Society, shows, that on November 1, last, there were 578,671 full-time students attending 431 institutions of higher learning of all types in the United States. This was an increase of three and one-half per cent. over the total for November 1, 1929. The three leaders in enrollment are California, Columbia, and Illinois.

The year 1931 should be an outstanding one in the history of the Alumni Association. The Grand Reunion of all classes at College Park, on June 6, is expected to be the most interesting and outstanding feature of the year. Also, the graduation of the largest class in the history of the institution will be of importance. In addition to these important events of the year, the more important feature is the increase in the interest and feeling of the alumni in the growth and affairs of the association and the university. It is hoped by the association officer and the administration heads of the university that such interest and feeling of the alumni will continue to grow as their assistance is of great importance in the building of a bigger and better university.

At the time that this was written, several alumni groups had scheduled their annual get-together dinners, but none had been held. The Frederick group was dated for the 30th of January while Philadelphia and Cumberland were to hold theirs February 4 and 7, respectively. The group "get-togethers" will afford an exceptionally good opportunity to arouse the interest of the alumni, to see old friends, and pave the way for the greatest reunion of Marylanders in history, at College Park in June. Other groups will have "get-togethers" later in the season.

Is Football Overemphasized?

All this talk about overemphasis in football brought a statement from Dr. R. A. Pearson, president of the university.

"There is no overemphasis on football at the University of Maryland," declared Dr. Pearson. "I feel that most of the other institutions of the South are not overemphasizing the sport."

"The question of overemphasis in football," he continued, "is largely a matter of what is meant by overemphasis and consequently opinions of individuals would differ to the extent of their varying points of view. The same question might be asked about any subject taught in a university. You could never get a professor of chemistry, for example, to think that too much time is being given to laboratory courses, or, in other words, that his subject is being overemphasized.

"On the contrary, the professor in English or psychology might easily think, and in many cases actually does think, that chemistry is overemphasized. Of course, I speak of these particular subjects only as a comparison," he said.

"Overemphasis in football in any university is entirely a matter of administration, just as it is in other phases of university work. It is a problem for each individual and ultimately will be solved by each institution in its own way and probably the solution in all cases will not be by the same methods," he concluded.

inauguration of the fund at the annual meeting. The purpose of the fund will be, "For the Good of the University."

The names and addresses of each class will be sent to the class representatives that they may use their influence in writing to and encouraging other members of their class to return for the Grand Reunion.

The cooperation of all alumni groups, class representatives, sororities, and fraternities is to be asked for in an effort to make this the greatest reunion of Marylanders in history.

Two-Sport Athlete Lost

Bob Gaylor, who was the leading scorer of the 1930 basket-ball team and third baseman on the baseball nine, has quit school. He was a senior.

From The Diamondback

Frosh prom date is set for February 20 and will be held in the Ritchie Gym from 10 until 2.

The annual Military Ball will be held March 6 in the Ritchie Gym as announced by Henry Whiting, Lieut. Col. of the R. O. T. C. unit. Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, will at that time announce their pledges.

Plans for the improvement of the service at the university dining-hall are rapidly going ahead, and in their tentative form include the assignment of a host at each table to distribute the food, entertainment, such as music and singing, during the meals and occasional placing of girl students at tables with the men.

After the opening of the second semester the student government will sponsor the resumption of the dances following basket-ball game held in the Ritchie Gym.

The Greek fraternities are planning their series of basket-ball contests. The contests will be held under the supervision of the Interfraternity Council. Dates as yet have not been arranged. Call or write the alumni office and the dates will be given as soon as known.

William Kricker, of Sparrows Point, has been appointed the chairman of the Junior Prom Committee. The date of the prom has not been set as yet, but it will probably be the latter part of March. The prom will usher in a gala week-end, which will be followed by house parties of the fraternities and sororities, culminating with the annual interfraternity tea dance in the Ritchie Gym.

A committee has been selected to make arrangements for the Calvert Cotillion which will be held Friday, February 27. Arley Unger is chairman of the committee.

Elizabeth Mims, who hails from the western State of Oklahoma, has gained a place of prominence in student leadership.

Two new fraternity houses, valued jointly at approximately $75,000, have recently been completed near the campus. Delta Sigma Phi's new edifice, a stone's throw from Silvester Hall and situated on Wellesley Ave., extended, is the most recent structure. Alpha Gamma Rho, completed and occupied before the Christmas recess, is located in College Park, on Princeton Ave.

The Footlight Club, a dramatic organization, is expected to offer a mystery thriller as the first 1931 production.

University of Wisconsin opened a new Field House, the structure to seat 8,000.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Boxing Makes Bow In A "Test" Season

Bouts This Year Will Determine If Sport Is To Be Carried On Regular Program

Boxing now has invaded the Maryland campus.

Following the basket-ball games with V. P. I. January 31, the Old Liners were to figure in their first collegiate fistic engagement with Washington and Lee as the opponent. That is history now, but when this was written William Whipp, able coach from the Racquet Club, in Washington, said he had a fine boxer in Bernard Keener, 145-pounder, and good men in Karl Mech, a middleweight, and Francis Holloway, a heavyweight.

He has some other good prospects, with the complete squad being as follows:

Name	Weight	Class
Francis Holloway	185	Senior.
William Robbins	158	Soph.
James Loughran	166	Junior.
George Spates	165	Soph.
Karl Mech	165	Junior.
Victor Wingate	155	Soph.
William Miller	165	Junior.
Kenneth Baker	148	Senior.
Bernard Keener	144	Soph.
Louis Tertel	145	Senior.
Arnold Smoot	140	Soph.
Robert Oberlin	135	Senior.
Frank Isemann	135	Soph.
Marvin Callis	132	Soph.
William Rice	128	Soph.
James Decker	125	Soph.
William Burslem	118	Soph.
A. M. Lake	118	Soph.

V. M. I's team is to visit College Park on February 7 and Maryland has a return engagement with Washington and Lee at Lexington on February 28.

Only three bouts are listed this year but they will determine whether boxing is to be carried on as a regular athletic pastime.

Rifle Team Showing Class

The rifle team, firing in the first matches of the year, last week was the victor over three out of four of its rivals. The teams defeated were: City College of New York, University of Alabama, and Presbyterian College of Clinton, Cornell University being the victor over the Old Line sharpshooters.

Will Invade Annapolis In Droves, February 21

Maryland students, alumni, and followers of the Old Liners in general, are due to flock to Annapolis on February 21 when both the Terrapin-Varsity and freshman basket-ball teams battle the Middies.

The freshmen will play the plebes at 1 o'clock and the Varsity contest will begin at 2:30. Both promise to be warm affairs.

Freshman Quintet Has Great Power

Maryland, in its freshman basketball team that has won all its games, has the second-best cub quint in the history of the institution.

And the six players who made up the best freshman team in the history of the school, in the 1929 season, now comprise the Varsity and will be waiting next year for the present yearlings to graduate into the big-team ranks.

If Burton Shipley can get by with his Varsity this year with his meager reserve strength he should be "sitting pretty" in 1932.

Jack Faber's "baby Terrapins" simply mopped up Business, Eastern, Western, and Central High Schools of Washington and the Catholic University and Georgetown freshman quints in their first six games, scoring 234 points to 111 for their rivals.

Faber's six leading players, with the points they have scored are as follows:

Rufus Vincent, center, 63; Spencer Chase, forward, 45; Alton Bucher, forward guard, 34; Wilbur Wright, guard, 27; Robert Snyder, forward guard, 25; R[illegible] Lampson, forward guard, 13.

John Monk, center; Ray Davidson and Homer Hart, forwards, and Harold Naughton, guard, complete the squad.

Remaining games are:

February 3—Emerson Institute; 11—Tech High; 14—Catholic U. freshmen at Washington; 17—St. John's freshmen; 19—Georgetown freshman; 21—Navy plebes at Annapolis, 1 o'clock.

All games at College Park at 4 o'clock.

SETS SCORING PACE

Bozey Berger

He made 59 points in Maryland's first six basket-ball tilts and played a brilliant all-around game.

Basket-ball Team Setting Fast Pace

Varsity Has Won 5 Of 6 Contests With Five Players Doing Most All Of Work

When the University of Maryland basket-ball players took a respite the latter part of January, to battle the books in mid-year exams, both the Varsity and Freshman combinations were setting a fast pace.

Coach Burton Shipley's Varsity had won 5 out of 6 games and the yearlings had taken all of their half-dozen.

Maryland's Varsity record in the first six games was:

Maryland, 38; Gallaudet, 29.
Maryland, 35; V. M. I., 18.
Maryland, 36; Washington and Lee, 21.
Maryland, 32; Duke, 24.
Maryland, 30; Loyola (Baltimore), 33.
Maryland, 33; Hopkins, 20.

Maryland's regular five in these games consisted of Ed. Ronkin and Shorty Chalmers, forwards; Jack Norris, center, and Bozey Berger and Charlie May, guards. All are juniors.

Bob Wilson, a junior, and John Pitzer, a senior, were the only other players to see action and the only reserves of experience on the squad. They played only a short while in a couple of games.

Berger has set the pace in scoring, with 59 points, with the other regulars counting as follows: Chalmers, 51; Norris, 42; Ronkin, 41, and May, 9. May plays back guard and seldom goes down the floor to shoot.

Maryland has scored 204 points to 145 for its rivals.

January 30—V. M. I.; 31—V. P. I.
February 2—Virginia at Charlottesville; 3—Washington and Lee; 6—Catholic University at Washington; 10—North Carolina; 11—Washington College, 13—Virginia, 14—Western Maryland; 17—St. John's; 21—Navy at Annapolis (afternoon at 2:30); 25—Johns Hopkins.

Maryland also plans to send a team to the Southern Conference tourney which begins in Atlanta on February 27.

Bunt Watkins won't have to use up so much of his public-speaking talent this year with his freshman ball team. He was shy on material last spring, but it is said that there is quite an array of young diamond aspirants at College Park this year.

Medical School Hospital

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, in his message to the Maryland General Assembly, included in his appropriation recommendations the University of Maryland Hospital.

Governor Ritchie, in his message, said, "The hospital is absolutely essential as a means of providing necessary teaching material for the students in the Medical School and it should supply as fully as possible the need of hospital facilities for persons of moderate means and those entirely unable to pay for them."

Public-spirited persons who are interested in the new hospital have agreed to raise and donate approximately $250,000 toward its construction.

Noted Botanist Visits Campus

Dr. L. H. Bailey, noted botanist and educator, recently visited our campus and his personal friend, Dr. R. A. Pearson, while en route to Florida. Dr. Pearson was a student of Dr. Bailey's at Cornell University. Dr. Bailey is an outstanding leader in agricultural education and its related fields.

Eppley Looking Forward To Fair Track Campaign

Coach Geary Eppley of the track team, who has about 25 men working out indoors, hopes to have a combination that will approximate the strength of last year's by the time the outdoor season gets under way.

Eppley lost five of his six leading point winners of last year and is now facing a difficult task.

Maryland will take part in the indoor meet at Virginia next month; Catholic University games in Washington on March 7, and probably one or two others.

The outdoor schedule will be about the same as last year with Navy coming to College Park for Field Day on May 2.

Will Have Field House By Fall, Curley Byrd Declares

Curley Byrd says he is going to have the much-needed field house by next fall or burst in the attempt.

And, as some one said when told of his determination: "Curley never has exploded yet to my knowledge."

Basket-ball has outgrown Ritchie Gymnasium and the demand for its use for other recreational purposes has made a field house almost imperative.

Inspectors Hear Williar, '07

Bridge Inspectors Short Course held on the campus under the auspices of the Engineering College in December, 1930, was addressed by an alumnus, H. D. Williar, Jr., '07. Williar is chief engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Special Drill-Unit Forming

Major Alvan C. Gillem, professor of Military Science and Tactics, has tentative plans for forming a special drilled and equipped unit that will perform special drill exhibitions on Alumni Day this year and at football games, and at a large gathering the coming year.

Dr. H. J. Patterson Heads Celebration Held Under Auspices Of Agriculture Club

COMMEMORATION exercises of the signing of the charter of the Maryland Agricultural College 75 years ago, the origin of the College Park Branch of the University of Maryland, were held in the University Dining Hall, March 6.

The Maryland Agricultural College, the second agricultural college chartered in the Western Hempshire, charter signed in 1856, did not actually open its doors to those students desiring a scientific education until October 5, 1859. For several years it was under private management until the United States Congress passed the Land Grant Act in 1862. This grant was accepted by the General Assembly of Maryland, and the college was named beneficiary of the grant. Thus the college became, at least in part, a state institution. In 1914 the control was taken over entirely by the State. In 1916 the General Assembly granted a new charter to the college and made it Maryland State College. In 1920, by an act of the State Legislature, the college was merged with the University of Maryland, to form a State University.

Secretary of Agriculture, Arthur M. Hyde, was present and gave an interesting talk on national agriculture of today. "The future of agriculture," he said, "depends on the intelligent organizing of farmers."

Dr. H. J. Patterson, dean of the College of Agriculture, and director of the Experiment Station, was the prime mover in the celebration; the details of the affair were handled by the Agricultural Club, a student organization.

The theme of the celebration was

Showing Remarkable As Five Men Bear Burden—Berger, Ronkin On All-State Team

MARYLAND'S varsity basketers, coached for the eighth consecutive year by H. Burton Shipley, former Old Line athlete, won 14 of 18 games during the regular season. This tied the second-best record ever made by the Old Liners. Their best was 14 victories in 16 contests.

Wm. P. Cole, Jr., '09 On Board of Regents

Representative-elect William P. Cole, Jr., of the United States Congress, has been appointed by Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, to the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland, to become effective May of this year. He will succeed Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, former president of the Johns Hopkins University, retired.

Hon. Wm. P. Cole, Jr., more familiarly known to all University of Maryland alumni as "Bill" Cole, graduated from the old Maryland Agricultural College in Engineering with the class of 1909.

Immediately after that he entered the old University of Maryland Law School, in Baltimore, and, after finishing there, was admitted to the practice of law.

In 1926 he entered the Congressional race for Congress and won by a tremendous majority. Again, in 1928, he ran, but was defeated in the Republican landslide.

Believing in his friends, "Bill" again entered the race this past fall and won the election by a very large majority, which was a real tribute to him as his opponents were prominent men.

The University of Maryland recognizes him as one of her distinguished alumni and would back him to the limit in anything he undertook, because he is the type of man who would undertake nothing except that which has embodied in it the highest ideals and the best interests of the State.

Old Line Club Banquet March 25

The annual "Get-together" of the Old Line Club, the Washington male group of the Alumni Association, will be held March 25 at the University Club, 15th and Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

All-Star Teams Being Picked

The "M" Club is sponsoring the picking of the all-star teams, by the entire Alumni Association, for the various sports that were played at the Maryland Agricultural College, Maryland State College, and the University of Maryland.

Campus Notes

Shooting its way to the second victory of the current season, the girl's rifle team of the University defeated the University of Missouri by a total of 497 to 482.

The Sophomore Prom is set for April 10 in the Ritchie Gymnasium from 10 to 1. It will be strictly a formal affair and bans all stags.

Kappa Alpha fraternity wins the Inter-fraternity Basket-ball tournament. The victory gives Kappa Alpha possession of the Inter-fraternity Council Basket-ball Trophy as well as the Zalesak Trophy, given by Emanuel F. Zalesak, '25, offered annually for the tournament.

Maryland debaters lose encounter at Boston University. Maryland debated the affirmative side of the question: Resolved, "That chain stores are beneficial to the American people."

Western Maryland and Georgetown are defeated in shoulder-to-shoulder matches, on the home range. In telegraphic matches, Universities of Illinois, Wyoming, and South Dakota were defeated, while Oklahoma A. & M. and University of Dayton defeated the Marylanders.

Cumberland Group Hold Third Annual Banquet

Dr. Arthur H. Hawkins, '95, was elected president of the Western Maryland branch of the University of Maryland Alumni Association, at the third annual banquet of the organization, held Saturday night at the Cumberland Country Club. More than 125 graduates were present.

Dr. Hawkins was born and reared in Charles County, Md. He graduated from the old School of Physicians and Surgeons, now a part of the University of Maryland, in 1895, after which he spent two years doing hospital work in Baltimore, and since 1897 he has been located in Allegany County, Maryland. For a number of years he has devoted himself exclusively to surgical work and stands at the head of his profession.

Dr. A. H. Hawkins

Other officers elected were: Dr. Howard L. Tolson, Dr. A. G. T. Twigg, Clarence Lippel, Dr. Lester Batie and J. A. Kefauver, vice-presidents; Walter C. Capper, secretary; J. Wesley P. Somerville, '05, treasurer.

United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, was the principal speaker.

F. Brooke Whiting was toastmaster and introduced Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University. Other speakers were: H. C. Byrd, vice-president and director of athletics; Dr. J. M. H. Rowland, dean of the school of medicine; Dr. Arthur M. Shipley, professor of surgery; Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of the school of dentistry; Dr. A. G. DuMez, dean of the school of pharmacy; Dr. Robert Hall, assistant dean of the law school.

The following graduates, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, attended the banquet:

Frederick Group Organize Homer Remsberg, President

The Frederick Group of the Alumni Association held its annual meeting and banquet January 30 in Blue and Gray room of the Francis Scott Key Hotel, Frederick, Md. Many alumni of Frederick and nearby counties of both the Baltimore and College Park branches were present. United States Senator M. E. Tydings was the principal speaker of the evening. H. C. "Curley" Byrd, athletic director and assistant to the president and Dr. T. B. Symons, secretary-treasurer of the association, also addressed the group.

J. Homer Remsberg was elected president; Guy K. Motters, vice-president; H. R. Shoemaker, secretary-treasurer. The following are to form the executive committee: Peter W. Chichester, Dr. Harry J. Kefauver, David C. Winebrenner, 3rd, Dr. A. A. Radcliff, and Dr. Edward P. Thomas.

Dr. Charles H. Conley was toastmaster of the occasion. In his opening remarks he humorously referred to his experiences as a student, back in the '90 days at the old Maryland Agricultural College, now a part of the University.

Former Maryland State Senator Frank A. Norwood, '74, one of Maryland's oldest living alumni, was present. "To Senator Norwood's vote in 1924 goes the real credit for keeping the University of Maryland intact," says "Curley" in his address.

The following were present:

Senator Tydings, '10; Mr. Byrd, '08; Dr. Symons, '02; Ross V. Smith, '29; Norris Nichols, Harold A. Ramsburg, '24; Franklin Cramer, '29; Cecil K. Holter, '21; William Powell, '24; Phillip Wertheimer, '29; E. S. Delaplaine, Dr. J. T. Pyles, '98; Dr. Harry J. Kefauver, '00; Dr. Charles Mullen, '23; H. R. Shoemaker, '17; J. OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Hard Task Ahead For Lacrosse Team

Six Regulars Lost, Including Four All-America Players—Nine Letter-Men Remain

Lacrosse balls are bouncing around the practice field at College Park as the Old Liners look to the 1931 campaign with many holes in the team to plug up.

Jack Faber lost six of his 1930 regulars, including Bill Evans, in home, the country's leading scorer for two years; Al Heagy, first defense; Ossie Beck, center, and Jim Kelley, goal, all four all-American choices, and Harry Wilson, third defense, and Charlie Dodson, point. George Madigan, defense, and Bob Healy, attack, two other letter-men, also were graduated.

Vincent Colosimo, first attack; Jimmy Lee, second attack; Ed Ronkin, third attack; Fred Stieber, out home; Jack Norris, second defense, and Joe Deckman, cover point, are the regulars again on hand.

Skippy Faber, attack, and Jim Loughran and Morris Nicholson, defense, are other letter-men back on the job.

Gordon Pugh, ineligible last year but who is a clever attack player of experience in school, and club lacrosse in Baltimore, is expected to prove a great help, as is Charlie May, a defense man, who came out late last year. May showed great aptitude for the pastime.

Others to fill the gaps and for reserve roles will have to come from the second-stringers of last year and from the freshman ranks of 1930.

But Faber and his charges have a lot of work before them to round out as strong a combination as usually prevails at Maryland.

Ivan Marty, assistant coach last year, will be able to give only part-time aid this year, but Evans and Heagy will assist with the attack and defense, respectively. Evans is taking graduate work while Heagy is with the chemistry department.

Shipley has Limited Squad in Baseball

Should Have A Capable Team But Will Be Rather Short Of Reserve Strength

Like in basket-ball, coach Burton Shipley probably will be able to put a capable team on the field this year, but will be hard put for reserve strength.

"Ship" thought he was minus a catcher but finds that Herbert Cramer, a transfer from Franklin and Marshall, is eligible. He never played the diamond sport at his former school and has been at College Park more than the required year.

Bozey Berger, Shorty Chalmers, Mel Derr, and Bill Luney, infielders.

Paul Cronin and Ralph Sterling, outfielders.

His limited talent coming from the freshmen nine of last year includes:

Heinie Gorman, first base; George Connally and Robert Maxwell, outfielders, and Bill McIlwee, pitcher.

Gorman, Berger, Chalmers, and Derr will be his infield, with Luney in reserve, while Sterling will have to catch if anything happens to Cramer.

Batson, Chalmers, and Berger were the leading lights of the 1930 team who are back.

Julie Radice, first base; Fred Hetzel, Roy Tansill, and Jim Wilson, outfielders; Bob Gaylor, third base; George Phipps and Fred Boublitz, pitchers, and Wilfred Higgins, catcher, all clever performers, were lost.

for the Short Course Agriculture Students as well as those taking the full four-year course. He attended these lectures, with the permission of Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro, and was so much impressed with them that he became interested in the poultry field and decided to specialize in the subject. When he graduated, in 1911 with a B. S. degree, he presented the first thesis that was ever written at Maryland on the subject of poultry. For several months following his graduation he was engaged in dairy work in the Maryland Experiment Station. In August, 1912, he received an appointment as junior animal husbandman on poultry investigations in the United States Department of Agriculture, which position was held until 1920. At that time, he resigned from the Department of Agriculture to assist in the organization work of the National Poultry Institute, in which he now holds the important position of secretary and treasurer. In addition to being secretary of the institute, he is business manager of the National Poultry Journal, a publication devoted to poultry, which is published by the institute.

In 1913, he married Miss Edna Sibley Hutson and they have made their home in Washington, D. C., constantly since 1914.

BASKETERS CAPTURE 14 OF 18 CONTESTS

In view of the fact that the team was hard hit by the loss of players, through graduation, withdrawal, and injury and lacked reserve strength, the showing was really remarkable.

Practically all the basket-ball was played by five men—Ed. Ronkin and Shorty Chalmers, forwards; Jack Norris, center, and Bozey Berger and Charlie May, guards.

Frenchy Cohan, Bob Wilson, and Bus Pitzer were the leading reserves, with Fred Stieber and Skippy Faber being the only others to be with the squad at the finish.

Berger and Ronkin were picked as all-State players by Paul Menton, noted official and expert, who also is sporting editor of The Evening Sun, of Baltimore. Berger was labeled the best player in the State and Menton found it difficult to choose between Ronkin and Chalmers in awarding Maryland its second man.

Berger was the leading point-scorer with 172, the others counting as follows: Ronkin, 141; Chalmers, 121; Norris, 117; May, 31; Cohan, 11; Wilson, 10; Pitzer, 1.

Maryland scored 694 points to 462 for its rivals, the Old Liners averaging 33½ per game.

The season's record follows:

January 7—Maryland, 38; Gallaudet, 27.
*January 9—Maryland, 35; V. M. I., 18.

Boxing Team Fares Well For Its Debut Campaign

Maryland's test season in boxing proved more of a success than was expected, the Old Liners, who lost all three of their meets, winning 8 bouts in 21. Washington and Lee was met twice and V. M. I. once.

Bernard Keener, a welterweight, was the only Old Liner to win three bouts. Francis Holloway, light-heavy; Jimmy Decker, bantam; Karl Mech, middleweight; Ted Keenan, heavyweight, who won his only contest; Frank Isemann, and one or two others did some good work.

Coach William Whipp now is working with his pupils, looking to the future, and should have a fairly well-balanced organization by next year.

JOHN W. MITCHELL, '09

We regret to announce the death of John W. Mitchell, of the Class of 1906, who died April 10, 1929. His death was not known until a reply from his administrators was received in answer to a classmate's letter.

Mr. Mitchell is survived by his wife, Mrs Edna H. Mitchell, now residing at 609 Carolina Street, Key West, Fla.

"General" Mitchell, as he was better known by his schoolmates, graduated in the civil engineering course from the old Maryland Agricultural College with the class of 1906. For many years he was connected with the engineering department of the Florida East Coast Railway. The name "General," it was learned, was an inherited name from a relative of the class of 1904, Walter Mitchell, the original "General Mitch."

Dr. Glenworth Sturgis

We regret to announce the death of Dr. Glenworth Sturgis, '05, who died in August, 1929. His death was not known until John P. Mudd, '07, accidentally came in contact with Dr. Sturgis' brother, a printer in Philadelphia.

Dr. Sturgis was a prominent educator, churchman, and civic worker and his death was a shock to his many friends and a great blow to the Perth Amboy High School of which he was principal.

Dr. Sturgis was born in the State of Delaware in 1882. When he was nine years old his family moved to Snow Hill, Md. He graduated from the old Maryland Agricultural College in 1905 and a year later secured his Master of Science degree. In 1909 he received his Ph. D. degree from his alma mater.

He is survived by a wife, Mrs India Sturgis, and three daughters, Winifred, Margaret, and Kathryn, and one brother.

Will Have Reading-room

The beautiful reading-room is deserving of special mention. It is a large and spacious room, with ample windows on all sides that provide the much desired natural light for reading and study. The electric lighting system represents the latest and best ideas in indirect artificial lighting. Two hundred and eighty-six persons can be accommodated at the 21 large reading tables.

The interior decorating scheme is of the Colonial order. The walls are painted Colonial cream and the window hangings are of tan mohair. The finish of all woodwork is walnut.

The capacity of the new library stacks is 50,000 books, and as at present the University has but a little over 30,000 volumes it can be seen that reasonable provision has been made for expansion. However, the librarian reports that many new and valuable volumes are to be added in the near future.

There is also located in the library building the new private branch telephone exchange for the entire University, which went into effect April 1. The number for the University on the new exchange is Berwyn 80.

Some of his remarks about the value of participation in athletics were exceptionally worth while.

Wellstood White

"We hear a good deal about over emphasis in college athletics," said Miller, "yet I have heard no man define just what is meant by overemphasis. Certainly I do not know what is covered by the term." Mr. Miller spoke of the fine athletic relationship that exists between Navy and Maryland and that Navy is looking forward to the football game to be played in Washington, October 10 next, and right now they are building for that game, "because we Navy people want to win that game just as much as you fellows do."

Toddy Riggs, '20, athletic director of St. John's College, Dr. A. W. Valentine, secretary of the Maryland medical alumni of Washington, D. C., Dr. T. B. Symons, '02, secretary of the General Alumni Association, also gave interesting talks.

The banquet room was decorated with Navy and Maryland banners and pennants. Entertainment was furnished by Yoeman and McClue, radio performers, from station WMAL.

Election for the ensuing year was as follows: Wellstood White, '05, president; Dr. C. W. Valentine, vice-president; Chauncey Brown, secretary-treasurer. Eddie Ruppert and H. P. (Moon) Hartshorn were elected to the board of directors to fill the vacancies of the expired terms. This closed the greatest "get-together" ever held by the Old Line Club.

Wellstood White, newly elected president, was born and raised in Montgomery County, graduated with the class of 1905 in civil engineering at the Maryland Agricultural College, now the College Park Schools of the University. Since graduation, his activities in business affairs have given him eminent success. At present he is manager of the nationally known Dulin and Martin Department Store of Washington, D. C.

When the United States entered the World War, he immediately enlisted and was sent to France, as an officer, where his good work gained for him many promotions. He returned to America a major and at present has the rank of Lieut.-Col. in the Officers Reserve Corps.

The following alumni and guests were present:

Dr. R. A. Pearson, D. H. Adams, Wellstood White, E. C. Edward Ruppert, Jr., R. M. Watkins, H. C. Byrd, H. B. Shipley, *J. C. Norris, *C. A. May, *Louis W. Burger, *George V. ATTENTION ALUMNI

The officers and staff of the Old Line, the humorous publication of the University's student body, are dedicating their next number to the Alumni Grand Reunion. Hence, it is very necessary that the alumni send notes, humorous or otherwise, about themselves or other alumni, to the alumni office for use in the Old Line, by May 15. Your assistance is earnestly solicited.

Cheer For Bunt Watkins

Bunt Watkins won't have to use up so much of his public-speaking talent this year with his freshman ball team. He was shy on material last spring, but there is quite an array of young diamond aspirants at College Park this year.

Maryland Athletic Teams Get Into Action In One of Busiest Campaigns In History, With Many Real Foes To Be Met

"Five-Ring Circus" Will Be Shown on Field Day, May 2. Banner Event of Schedule

THERE will be a lot of action in sports before the old grads get another issue of the NEWS and many of the contests will be worth traveling a long way to see.

Here are the main games up until May 15, by which time another issue of the NEWS should be forthcoming:

LACROSSE

April 18—Western Maryland.
*April 25—Syracuse.
May 2—Penn State.
May 9—St. John's.
May 18—Rutgers.

BASEBALL

April 21—Virginia.
April 22—Western Maryland.
April 24—Washington and Lee.
April 25—Virginia Poly.
April 27—North Carolina State.
May 2—West Virginia.
*May 6—Princeton.
*May 13—Virginia.
May 17—V. M. I.

TRACK

April 18—Catholic University.
April 25—Probable entry in Penn Relays at Philadelphia.
May 2—Virginia and Navy in triangular meet.
May 9—William and Mary.
May 16—Johns Hopkins.

* Means away.

May 2 is Field Day, the banner sport occasion of the spring season at Maryland, when the big scholastic meet, in which there are 13 open events and five closed to county high schools of the State, features the card.

It will be a "five-ring circus" though, as the triangular meet with Virginia and Navy will be run concurrently with the scholastic track affair, Penn State will offer plenty of competition in lacrosse, West Virginia's ball team will present a real problem, and William and Mary also will be met in tennis. A glimpse of all the events may be had from a seat in Byrd Stadium.

* * * *

When this issue went to press, Coach Burton Shipley was in the Sunny South with his ball team, and Jack Faber was priming his lacrossemen for tests that were about at hand. Geary Eppley also was tuning up his track aspirants.

All three had hard problems to solve, with Eppley, who lost all but one of his leading scorers of last year, having the biggest task.

However, the teams are sure to show enough to make all their engagements interesting and to carry off sufficient honors to uphold the prestige they have won in the past. They will be "in there fighting," at any rate, and what more can you ask?

LACROSSE WIZARD

John E. "Jack" Faber

Jack Faber thinks he has a "find" in George Hockensmith, an attack player.

"Hockensmith is the most promising sophomore lacrosse player I ever have seen," Faber declared.

He is only 5 feet 8 inches tall and tips the scales at only 155 pounds but is fast, aggressive, and sturdy. He was on the Varsity football squad last fall and could make the track team as a pole vaulter but he prefers lacrosse.

* * * *

Maryland will help both Navy and Army to provide features for their June week activities this year.

While the Maryland lacrosse twelve will be at Annapolis on May 30 battling the Middies, the Old Line nine will be at West Point in grips with the Cadets.

* * * *

Maryland hasn't a single athlete on any of its spring teams who weighs as much as 185.

Joe Krajcovic, who tips the scales at 183, is the heavyweight of all the squads; Bozey Berger, 176, is the heaviest ball player, and Jack Norris, 182, is the beefiest lacrosse performer.

Berger and Ronkin Placed On Star Quints Following Winning of Southern Title

Following the winning of the Southern Conference basket-ball championship at Atlanta, in the tourney that closed on March 3, many honors have been heaped upon the Old Line players.

Bozey Berger and Ed Ronkin were picked as the guards on the all-Southern team, and just a few days ago it was announced that the former had been given a place on an all-America quintet by Johnny Murray, a New York expert, who is entrusted with that task annually.

The Old Liners won the Dixie title through a fine display of courage and clever basket-ball, plus the fine strategy of coach Shipley and Faber, who was his right hand man. Each game was carefully planned and, in carrying off the honors, Maryland beat teams that far outstripped them in height and poundage.

The 16 best teams in the Southern Conference* are selected for play in the championship tourney and Maryland defeated the following four quints to garner the laurels:

Louisiana State, 37 to 33; North Carolina, 19 to 17; Georgia, the favorite, 26 to 25, and Kentucky, 29 to 27.

20 Years Ago In The Washington Star

The Alumni and Athletic Association of Maryland Agricultural College will hold a track and field meet May 20, at College Park, with events for college and high-school athletes.

* * * *

Maryland and Washington and Lee have shifted their football game for next fall, originally listed for November 14, to the following Saturday.

The Old Liners agreed to this to allow the Generals to meet Princeton on November 14, although the change will necessitate Maryland playing three games within two weeks, as Hopkins is booked for Thanksgiving, November 26, and Western Maryland is to meet on December 3.

Maryland Alumni Group In Philadelphia Hold Banquet

Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University, was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the third annual banquet and meeting of the Philadelphia group of Maryland alumni, held February 4 at the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia.

A. Moulton McNutt, president of the group, was the toastmaster. He graduated from the old Maryland Agricultural College, now the College Park Schools of the University, with the class of 1906, in agriculture. Since then he has changed his profession to law and at present is a counselor at law in Camden, New Jersey.

A. Moulton McNutt

John P. Mudd, '07, secretary-treasurer of the group, reports that a very successful meeting was had and the group is moving forward steadily.

Dr. Pearson gave a very interesting talk, pointing out the more important features of the University as it is today. He told of the latest addition to the campus at College Park and of the new buildings that are being added to the University in Baltimore. He pointed out the need and the part that a strong alumni organization can play in assisting to improve the services that the University can render.

Those present were: Misses Helen and Isabell Symons, H. D. Emack, '98, and Mrs. Emack; Harry Heward, '97, Mrs. Heward and daughter; John P. Mudd, '07, and Mrs. Mudd; A. Moulton McNutt, '06; George Richard, '28; Wm. J. Richard, '24; Ralph Smith and Mrs. Smith; William C. Rolph, '04; Joseph G. Scott, '22, and Mrs. Scott; N. L. Warren, '08; S. C. Dennis, '12; W. P. Fusselbaugh, '22; George F. Fettus, Jr., '26; Dr. Walter C. Reeder, '08; Dr. A. F. Mason; D. P. Perry, '21; J. Q. A. Holloway, '09; E. Nelson Sappington, '00; James H. Harlow and Mrs. Harlow.

Attention: Class Of 1929

On May 1, 1931, the sum of $50.00, the amount remaining in our class treasury, will be turned over to Miss Grace Barnes, librarian, as a gift for the new library.

If there are any objections to this method of disposition, please advise me before that date.

Rose Alice Laughlin,
Sec'y-treas., Class of 1929.

The Value of a Diploma

THE VALUE of a diploma depends upon the standing of the institution that issues it. If the institution grows stronger, and more useful, the diplomas which it has issued will be prized more highly. If it languishes, the diplomas will be prized less and less. So here is a reason why alumni always will be interested in the progress of their Alma Mater and it is an argument for their help in any proper way.

PRESIDENT RAYMOND A. PEARSON.

Sen. M. E. Tidings, '10, Grand Reunion Leader

Senator Millard E. Tydings, '10, our eminent member of Congress, was the father of the "Grand Reunion" thought. "Chief" Tydings, as his classmates call him, said last year at the annual meeting, "I have been to many alumni meetings, and yet I haven't seen as many faces here as I would like to see. There are many friends in other classes that all of us would enjoy meeting. In 1931, let's have a "Grand Reunion" of all classes and make it the greatest gathering of Marylanders in history!"

Senator Tydings is one of Maryland's outstanding alumni who never stands back when he can be of assistance to his Alma Mater. What a great day it will be for "Chief" Tydings to see a thousand faces on the campus at College Park!

DON'T MISS IT!

Our Faculty

Our faculty are deeply interested in the return of former students of Maryland on Alumni Day. The deans of our respective Colleges and several older members of the faculty, from the standpoint of service, are sending their expressions about the Grand Reunion through the columns of the News, with the hope that many former students of Maryland will be present, June 6th.

From Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro

DEAR MR. EDITOR: May I, as an honorary alumnus, be allowed a few words in regard to the Grand Alumni Reunion to be held at College Park on the sixth of next June?

What do we celebrate on that occasion? The birth and growth of an original Maryland idea in education which has slowly but steadily impressed itself upon the world, and here at College Park has developed a great State University which now in its adolescence stands in the front rank of institutions of learning and research, and whose mature grandeur and usefulness no prophet may foretell.

Why do we celebrate? Because every alumnus is, and should so consider himself, an integral part of the University. He has helped in its growth and he must share in its glory.

The relations of an alumnus to his college are at once those of son to mother and parent to child, involving reverence, gratitude, love, joy of association, hope, promise, and anticipation. No Maryland alumnus will fail in any of these qualities.

No friendships or other ties are closer or more strongly knit than those made on the college campus. Hardships, defeats, achievements, victories, jokes, tricks, pranks, hopes, all bind together in indissoluble chains those who have shared them in pain or pleasure. What occasion so opportune as the Grand Reunion to renew these old associations, to live once more with kindred spirits the glorious years of campus life and draw therefrom the inspiration and determination to ever revere our Alma Mater, and, as loyal sons, to advance her fame and fortune? Respectfully,

W. T. L. TALIAFERRO.

ALUMNI ON OUR BOARD OF REGENTS

Hon. Henry Holzapfel, Jr.

Mr. Holzapfel is a graduate of the old Maryland Agricultural College, now the College Park Schools of the University of Maryland, in the class of 1893, and now is a member of the Board of Regents of his Alma Mater. His appointment was made by the Governor of Maryland in 1925 and his term of office does not expire until 1934. His home is in Hagerstown, Maryland, where he was born and raised. At present, he is president of a prominent banking institution of Hagerstown and, also, vice-president of the well-known Potomac Edison Electrical Company of Western Maryland, with its main office located in the same town.

Following his graduation, Mr. Holzapfel entered the florist business and his good business methods, interest in civic affairs, and his pleasing personality gained for him prominence and many friends.

He has, whenever possible, attended all alumni gatherings held at College Park, the scene of his happy college days. He greatly enjoys meeting the old and young graduates of the University of Maryland.

College of Education

TO THE ALUMNI:

The University regards the "homecoming" of its former students on Alumni Day as one of the most important events of its calendar. It is looked upon as our opportunity to bring alumni in closer touch with the progress the University is making. We also feel that the bonds of loyalty are greatly strengthened among old friends. The University, to me, is like the old homestead in which the fires are kept burning, the lights are bright, and, as the family grows, there is increased hospitality for all.

June 6, next, is the day for the Grand Reunion of all former students of the University. I hope that every alumnus and alumna will find it possible to have the pleasure of spending this day with old friends at the University.

The College of Education extends to each of you a cordial invitation to visit our College. Avail yourself of any service that we can render.

Looking forward to a delightful day and the pleasure of meeting you, I am

Yours cordially,

W. S. SMALL,
Dean.

"Pete" Chichester, '20, was on the campus and when the subject of the Grand Reunion was mentioned, here is what he said: "I am going to be Johnny-on-the-spot and I want to see all of my old friends come back."

Message From Congressman William P. Cole, Jr., '10

FELLOW ALUMNI:

I have been asked to present a message to the alumni regarding our "Grand Reunion" to be held on June 6 next.

What surprises me is the number of graduates from College Park who constantly —and justly so—boast of their Alma Mater and never hesitate to capitalize in one way or another the value of their diploma, and yet, are unwilling apparently to give one day or a part thereof to their Alumni Association. True, a reunion provides an opportunity to meet old college chums and to reminisce over the greatest period of life, but, more important than that, the presence of each graduate at such meetings means new ideas, better and stronger cooperation and additional encouragement toward the success of the main purpose of our Alumni Association, i. e. the upbuilding of the University of Maryland.

I find so many, many graduates of College Park who are willing to help in every way possible, whether it be financial or otherwise. Let each graduate from College Park who happens to read this edition of the ALUMNI NEWS, pause for a moment and reflect upon those days when he or she was at College Park and in doing so conclude to take a day off on June 6, come to College Park and not only enjoy the splendid program arranged for his or her pleasure, but at the meeting of the alumni give advice and thought as to what in their judgment is worth while for the Alumni Association to do in helping the University.

College Park has experienced phenomenal growth in the last twenty years and today it rivals in standing, reputation and general rating, the best educational institutions of our country. Show our appreciation of what the State, administrative body and faculty have been doing through liberal contributions, earnest and painstaking effort, and join your class in the greatest Reunion College Park has ever witnessed.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM P. COLE, JR., '10.

Harriet W. (Billie) Bland, '21, writes in for roster of class of '21. Said she was going to rout out many of her classmates. Look out for '21, and are they to win the prize?

Dr. W. W. Skinner

Dr. Skinner, a native of Maryland and a resident of Kensington, Montgomery County, became a member of the Board of Regents of his Alma Mater in 1927 for a term of nine years. He is a graduate of the old Maryland Agricultural College, now the College Park Schools of the University, with a B. S. degree in the class of 1895. He has been actively engaged in the chemical field for years and at present is director of the Chemistry Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Skinner is a firm believer in the alumni reunions where old grads can meet and renew old friendships, see those whose faces have been lost for many years. He is, also, deeply interested in meeting the younger graduates of the University and especially rejoices in meeting the graduating class each year.

As chemistry is Dr. Skinner's profession, he greatly appreciates meeting those young graduates who are engaged in that field.

If it is possible to do so, Dr. Skinner wants to be present June 6 and desires to meet, not hear from, as many old and young former students of Maryland as possible. He is representative of his class and a large return is expected.

College of Arts and Sciences

ALUMNI OF MARYLAND:

Since the strength of an institution in large measure depends upon the strength of the bond of loyalty existing between the institution and the alumni body I am, naturally, in favor of gatherings of the alumni or of any other method which would increase the strength of that bond.

In regard to the meeting on June 6, I sincerely trust that it may be not only a source of pleasure and gratification to the alumni, to whom I send my warmest greetings, but an asset of great value to the University.

In conclusion, may I express the hope that hereafter a time may be selected for this meeting which will enable the members of the Alumni Association to come in contact with the entire student body, obtain first-hand knowledge of the activities of the University, and take under consideration such other things as may interest them. It is not possible to attain these objects at the end of the examination period of the second semester.

With kind regards, I am
Yours sincerely,
T. H. TALIAFERRO,
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences.

Lacrosse Squad Which Has Done Well

Lacrosse Twelve Making Progress

Handily Takes Early Contests And Should Be Tough Foe For Hopkins And Navy

Old grads who see the Varsity lacrosse team in action against Johns Hopkins in Baltimore on May 23 and Navy at Annapolis a week later, in the last two games of the season, doubtless will view a combination that will put up a real battle.

Jack Faber faced a great problem at the outset of the season, due to the losses from the great team that walloped Hopkins and Navy so soundly in the last two tilts of the 1930 season. His defense, especially, was wrecked, and that problem has not yet been solved.

His attack has been able to carry the team along in the first four games—Georgia being beaten, 20 to 3; Washington College, 8 to 1; Western Maryland, 15 to 0; Syracuse, 12 to 2, and Penn State, 12 to 0.

However, following these games and prior to the tilts with Hopkins and Navy, St. John's and Rutgers had to be met. By the time these two games are over, the Old Liners should be at the top strength. St. John's with a veteran team, is the big obstacle.

In addition to his losses by graduation, Faber lost his brother Skippy, in home, through a knee injury and had Jack Norris, who now appears almost O. K., put off his defensive array for the same season.

Fred Invernezzi, goal; Joe Deckman, point; Dale Snell, cover point; Charlie May, first defense; Morris Nicholson, second defense; Jim Loughran, third defense; Gordon Pugh, center; George Hockensmith, third attack; Jimmy Lee, second attack; Vincent Colosimo, first attack; Ed Ronkin, out home; Fred Stieber, in home.

Norris may replace Nicholson and the other leading players are: Ed Harlan and Bill Wood, attack; George Cole, Johnny Mitchell and Fred Nordenholz, defense, and Carl Pfau, goal.

Only Deckman, Lee, Colosimo, Ronkin, Stieber, and Norris were regulars last season. All the others were reserves in 1931, except Pugh, ineligible a year ago, and Hockensmith, Wood, Cole, Mitchell, and Nordenholz who came up from the yearlings.

Smith Doing A Good Job With Frosh Lacrossers

"Ed" Smith, who used to play center in great style in lacrosse for Maryland some years back, is doing a good job with the yearling stick squad for the fourth successive season.

Smith sprang a big surprise in his opening game by defeating Baltimore City College with his green outfit by a 3 to 2 score after the experienced schoolboys had led, 2 to 0, at the end of the first half.

He will have developed some capable material for Jack Faber for next season before the campaign is ended. His team will play five games in all.

Men's, Girls' Field Houses Under Way

Both Due To Be Ready By Next Fall. Structure On Boulevard To Seat About 4,500

Work has begun on two field houses, one for the men and one for the girls, at Maryland and both are due to be ready early next fall.

While the girls', of course, will be much smaller than the men's, it will be ample for the co-eds, as the ratio is about one of the fair sex to four of the sterner sex at College Park.

The men's field house will be between the Washington-Baltimore Blvd. and the new baseball diamond and will take up more than half the space now occupied by the eight tennis courts. The girls' building will be on the upper part of the campus just north of the old reservoir.

The men's field house will seat around 4,500 for basket-ball games and boxing matches and will have dressing rooms for all the Maryland Varsity teams in addition to ones for the visiting athletes. There also will be sleeping quarters for visiting teams.

Another feature will be a faculty exercise room that will be open to all members of the University staff.

The building will be 172 feet, 8 inches long and 136 feet wide.

OLD LINE ATHLETIC ACTIVITIES

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Baseball Squad Which Will Entertain June 6

Nine Takes Seven Of First 12 Tilts

Maryland's baseball team has been going along fully as well, if not better than was expected this year as it was known at the outset that the nine had some weak spots that would make the going rather rough.

Coach Burton Shipley's charges captured seven of their first 12 games, six of the victories being over Southern Conference rivals and the other at the expense of Harvard.

It was felt at the start of the season that if the team won half its games during the campaign it would do well and it bids fair to accomplish this at least.

Shipley's line-up in most of the games has been as follows:

Paul Cronin, left field; "Bozey" Berger, third base; "Hammy" Derr, second base; Hymie Gorman, first base; "Shorty" Chalmers, shortstop; "Bob" Wilson, center field; "Bob" Maxwell, right field.

Harry Milburn, winner of four of his first five games, and Bill McIlwee, who has captured two of his first three, are the leading pitchers.

Jack Batson, star last year, has been bothered by a bad arm, and, along with Arthur Hauver and Harry Hess, has not seen much service.

Ralph Sterling has done most of the catching but has been aided by Herbert Cramer, Lloyd Jones, and Bill Luney.

Frosh Baseball Squad Contains Good Players

There are some weak spots in the Varsity baseball team this season but unless something goes amiss with the freshman diamond talent at hand Coach Burton Shipley will be well fixed next spring.

Hammy Derr, second sacker, and Jack Batson, Harry Milburn and Harry Hess, pitchers, are the only seniors on the Varsity combination and "Bunt" Watkins, public-speaking instructor who tutors the yearlings, says he will give "Ship" some boys who will make his diamonders hustle to hold their jobs.

Watkins' best performers are:

William O'Hara, catcher or outfielder, Fort George Meade; "Buck" Kilroy, catcher or outfielder, Washington; "Steve" Physioc, pitcher, Baltimore; "Ray" Davidson, pitcher, Washington; Bennie Spiegel, pitcher, Washington; Spencer Chase, first baseman, Riverdale; "Wilhe" Wolf, second baseman, Washington; Donald Barton, shortstop, Hyattsville; Norwood Sotherton, third baseman, Charlotte Hall; "Bucky" Luscher and Willis Benner, outfielders, both of Washington.

There are some others on the squad, but these are the most capable players.

W. And L. Nine To Visit For Reunion Day Game

Maryland will do the unusual in playing the Washington and Lee baseball team four times this spring.

The Old Liners already have taken both of the league tilts from the Generals, but will play them twice more as commencement game exchanges.

Washington and Lee will invade College Park to give the Old Liners a battle on Saturday, June 6, as part of the Reunion program while Maryland will return the compliment to the Generals the following Monday.

Eppley Doing Well With Track Squad

Coach Geary Eppley, who faced the biggest problem of any of the coaches of the spring sports teams, has done well to have his track outfit win one of its first four meets.

He defeated Catholic University after losing to V. M. I., Washington and Lee and Virginia, all highly capable combinations.

He has high hopes of adding Johns Hopkins to the list at College Park on May 16 and if this is done the season will offer nothing to moan about.

"Bob" Havell, sprinter; Ronald Brown, "Phil" Cooper and Ralph Shure, runners; Charlie Fouts and "Jim" Busick, who perform in the jumps and pole vault, and Jess Krajcovic, weight men, are the leading members of the team.

Havell and Cooper are the only seniors and with what material he will get from the yearlings Eppley should have an improved team next spring.

National Championship Won By Co-ed Riflers

The girls' rifle team of the University of Maryland has been returned national champions. Scoring 2,967 out of a possible 3,000, the College Park co-eds had a margin of five points on George Washington, which won the title in 1930.

Members of the Maryland team who figured in the victory, 10 being allowed to shoot in each one of the three stages and the five high scores counting, were:

Ruth Diggs, Dorothy Blaisdell, Irene Knox, Betty Mulligan, Josephine Knox, Felisa Jenkins, Frances McCubbin, and Phyllis Oberlin. The team is coached by Sgt. Earl Hendricks.

A. T. Schenck, '06, of Seattle, Washington, reads with interest and enthusiasm about the University of Maryland co-ed rifle champions in the Seattle Star. Schenck is active in engineering work and has constructed many buildings on the campus of several western universities. The University of Washington, near which he lives, co-eds won 3rd place in the competition. Schenck says, "Here I am 3,000 miles away from a famous institution, and congratulation to the Maryland co-eds."

Greetings To Home-Economics Alumnae

Saturday, June 6, is to be Alumni Day at College Park. An interesting schedule of events for the day is being planned by the committee in charge.

The faculty of the College of Home Economics urgently invites its former students to return on that day, to meet old friends, to see the changes on the campus, and to know the progress made in economics.

The Home Economics Building, of which we are very proud, will be open. Members of the staff will be there to extend a hearty greeting to you on Alumni Day. Most sincerely,

MARIE MOUNT, Dean.

ALUMNI OF MARYLAND:

I am glad to urge all of the members of the association to put aside the daily grind for one grand, glorious day and spend it with the boys they lived with and loved during the years spent at College Park.

Take a holiday that is a real holiday. A day that will bring back refreshing memories of the past. A day to be young and light of heart.

What is more delightful than to grasp the hand of a man you have not seen for years, with whom you enjoyed so many wonderful experiences in the days gone by, recount with him the pleasures of many pleasant hours, the struggles on the gridiron, the cinder path, and the baseball diamond, and find in him a spirit like your own. Everywhere you turn you find a friend, it may be the name has escaped you but the face is so familiar. You then begin to realize how much the old school really means to you. You thought the years crowded it out, but it is there. Give it a chance and see how much you will enjoy it. Yours very truly,

A. MOULTON MCNUTT, '06

DEAN OF WOMEN

DEAR ALUMNUS:

Saturday, June 6, is truly a gala day for all of us, first of all because we are going to have the best reunion we have ever had since our Alumni Association was organized. It is going to be the largest one by far and we are expecting members from far and near to be with us. You do not want to miss it. Think of the opportunity you will have to see so many of your classmates and friends and to reminisce over college days.

It is indeed an historic Reunion Day as far as the women are concerned because those present will see the first dormitory in the process of construction as well as the girls' field house.

I will be looking forward to seeing all of you on June 6 and hope every single Maryland girl will make an effort to be with us. Do not disappoint me. Sincerely yours,

ADELE H. STAMP,
Dean of Women.

To Members of the Alumni Asso.

MY DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS:

Personally I want to see all of my old friends on June 6, and so does your Mother. Do you know that Alma Mater is the only mammal that never weans her children? She'll be waiting for you with all her fondness when you reappear on the old front porch.

The veterans of last century—I express a very hearty desire to see them again, and renew old times. "The Old Guard of '92" has had its ranks sadly decimated, but our hearts still throb as of yore.

God bless you all.

THOS. SPENCE,
Dean.

Five New Buildings Now Under Way

Since the completion of the new Library, five other new buildings have been started at College Park. In addition to the two field houses, there will be a Horticulture Building a Girl's Dormitory and an addition to the Engineering Building. The Girl's Dormitory is expected to be ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall term.

The Horticulture Building will be located approximately 400 yards in the rear of the Agriculture Building on the west side of the road leading to the Poultry plant. The Engineering addition is located in the rear and adjacent to the present building. The front of the present Engineering Building is to be renovated and a front constructed to conform with the architecture of the other buildings.

The Girl's Dormitory will occupy a prominent location on top of the hill north of the reservoir.

MARYLAND ALUMNI:

I hope that every engineering alumnus who can possibly do so will join in the alumni reunion on June 6.

Each should keep in mind that his presence adds not alone to his own enjoyment but also to that of all others who come.

An addition to the Engineering Building is under way which will afford increased laboratory and classroom space, and also provide a small auditorium, all of which have been so much needed.

To us of the faculty who are here, day in and day out, will come much inspiration from your presence.

After you have been around the campus and met one another, please take a moment to come in and see us on Alumni Day. Cordially yours,

Grand Reunion Awards

Class Trophy

To be awarded to that class which registers the highest percentage of living members, at the annual meeting June 6, 1931.

Oldest Living Alumnus Award

An award will be given to the oldest living alumnus present at the Reunion. Not in age but according to the years that he attended the Maryland Agricultural College. Any former student is eligible for this award.

Distance Award

Given to that alumnus who comes the farthest to attend the "Grand Reunion." Any former student is eligible for this award.

Pres. Southern Group

Prof. R. H. Ruffner, '08

FELLOW ALUMNI:

No more fitting subject presents itself for a brief message than our approaching Grand Reunion. Let us forget our cares and mingle together for a few hours as in days of old.

It will be a pleasure and a high privilege for us to attend the Reunion at our Alma Mater. To come to think about it, if we did not have an Alma Mater, we would feel like that man without a country—a wasted, lonely life, full of torment and sorrows.

If some of us from other states can attend, you who live in Maryland and nearby points should and, if you do not, the court should pass a sentence as it did on Philip Noland, a man without a country.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely,
R. H. RUFFNER, '08.

By H. C. (Dick) Whiteford

Pres. of Alumni Association

FELLOW ALUMNI:

I personally would like to appeal to every alumnus who attended the annual meeting last year to write or persuade another alumnus to come back with him this year. Also, if each alumnus who intends to return this year would write to several of his classmates urging them to return, it would be a great help in arousing the interest of every alumnus.

The success of the Grand Reunion depends on you, "Fellow Alumni," not on those in charge of the association. It is your day to make or unmake. Your presence alone is what will make the Reunion enjoyable for your friends.

Come on fellows, see you at College Park, June 6.

Yours,
"DICK."

From Maryland's Orator

TO THE OLD GRADS:

Your Alma Mater, beginning with the old Agricultural College, is this year celebrating its seventy-fifth birthday. What a splendid time for a "Grand Reunion" of former students!

There are some of us, your teachers and friends and comrades of days gone by, who are fast approaching the sunset of life. It would do them good to see you once again—the old boys of twenty-five and thirty years ago, as well as those who have more recently gone out into the world.

Why not drop everything for a day, visit the old school again, and make June 6 an occasion long to be remembered in Maryland's history?

Sincerely,
CHARLES S. RICHARDSON.

Chalmers Has Company In Three-Letter Class

Prior to the start of the football season, Shorty Chalmers, gridman, basketer and baseball player, was the only three-letter man left at the University, but two more were added during the gridiron campaign.

Bozey Berger and Jack Norris, who already had earned their insignia in two other sports, are the additions. Both Berger and Norris play basketball, the former having baseball and the latter lacrosse as their other pastimes.

Dunbar, '03, Has Son at Maryland

Emmons B. Dunbar, '03, after a lapse of 30 years, is again represented on the campus at College Park. His son, Wiliam H. Dunbar, '33, is registered in the College of Arts and Sciences as a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

E. B. (Doc) Dunbar graduated from the old Maryland Agricultural College, now the College Park schools of the University, with the class of 1903 in engineering. He is residing now at Little Valley, N. Y., and writes this in reply to a letter that had his class wrong: "I wish to thank you for your invitation to attend the Grand Reunion, June 6. There seems to be some confusion as to my class. I graduated in 1903, but if you 1914 fellows have anything special to uncork, I would be glad to sit in with you."

Old Liners Break Even On Field Day

Capture Lacrosse And Baseball Games But Are Defeated In Track And Tennis

Maryland got an even break in its big field-day program on May 2, the lacrosse team trimming Penn State, 13 to 0, and the baseball nine turning back West Virginia, 6 to 5, while the track squad bowed to Navy, 25 to 101, and the tennis players lost to William and Mary, 2 to 7.

Eastern High of Washington won the trophy in the open interscholastic games with 30 points, but was closely pressed by Central and Tech., both of the Capital City, and Episcopal of Virginia.

Hagerstown retained its honors won in 1930 by taking the trophy for the five events closed to county high schools. It scored 14 points with Hyattsville second with nine.

Forty-six schools, 38 of them from within the State, competed in the track meets.

Maryland simply outclassed Penn State in the lacrosse game, particularly in the second half when nine goals were scored.

Chester Ward, in the 100-yard dash, and Charlie Fouts, in the high jump, were the only Old Liners to get first places in the dual meet with Navy.

Maurice Goubeau and Bill Roberts, No. 1 and 2 singles players, were the Maryland netmen to win.

While threatening rain, which never came, kept down the attendance the field-day program was run off in fine style and from a strictly athletic standpoint the day was a huge success.

Dr. William B. Kemp, now assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, who used to play foot-ball and perform in track for Maryland, was the chairman in charge of the interscholastics.

In all, more than 500 athletes displayed their skill during the day.

"Old Grad," Stop! Look! Listen!

Now is the time to take that plunge. You've been thinking, every spring for the past (Gosh! how many years?), that you'll sure run back to college this June and see some of the boys.

But, always the doubt lingered in your mind whether you wouldn't feel lonesome—whether any of your old classmates and college mates would be there too. In the end you just didn't make the effort.

Well! you haven't got that excuse this year. This Home-coming Day on June 6 is going to be about as near universal as it can be. This is no single class reunion, it is a gathering of the clans from the first class to the latest.

Yep! your class will be represented, too—if you will stop shivering on the bank like "September Morn" and will get into the swim. Come on in, the water's fine!

F. B. BOMBERGER, '94.
